

NEAR EASTERN ARMISTICE SIGNED BY ALLIES

FINAL MEETING OF MUDANIA CONFERENCE LASTED 10 MINUTES

Armistice Terms Represented the Utmost Concessions the Western Powers Could Make to the Turks; France, Italy Backed Britain

Signed by Great Britain, France, Italy, Greece and Turkey; Turks Signing at 11 O'Clock Last Night and the Allies at 6:35 A. M. Today

By United Press

Mudania, Oct. 11.—The Near Eastern armistice was signed by the allies at 6:35 o'clock this morning.

The final meeting of the Mudania conference lasted only ten minutes. Journalists were called into the room where the allied generals and Ismet Pasha, representative of the Turkish nationalists, affixed their signatures to the protocol.

The armistice terms represented the utmost concessions the western powers would make to the Turks. Previous to the conclusion of the armistice, Sir Charles Harrington, British commander-in-chief, notified Ismet Pasha that the protocol represented the final terms of the allies as he had the backing of both France and Italy.

Calling of the peace conference, which is designed to bring permanent peace in the Near East, is to come soon.

As far as is known, no action was taken on the suggestion of the French that the parley be held at Scutari, Turkey, on November 1.

Five copies of the armistice were signed. Copies were sent to each of the following countries after their representatives affixed their signatures: Great Britain, France, Italy, Greece and Turkey.

The Turks signed at 11 o'clock last night.

The essence of the armistice follows:

1. The Greeks must evacuate Thrace. The Hellenic army must be out in two weeks, and the civil force shortly thereafter.

2. The Turkish gendarmerie may enter Thrace after an allied control of 45 days. The Turkish force of civil police must not exceed 8,000.

3. The Turks must not advance beyond their present lines in the Ismet neutral zone. In the Chanak zone the Turks must withdraw ten miles from the British position.

4. The British must not bring in reinforcements in this area.

5. The Turks guarantee to protect minorities.

AGREE TO DROP LEGAL BATTLE OVER THE ESTATE

(By United Press)
St. Paul, Oct. 11.—Heirs of the late Alexander McKenzie, for many years political leader in North Dakota, have dropped their legal battle over the estate.

This was learned today when attorneys representing the heirs appeared before Judge Edward Wheeler, probate court, and consented to objections to the will previously being overruled, and agreed to the appointment of George P. Flannery as executor.

McKenzie, died at St. Paul, June 23rd and objections to the will were filed in probate court by Jeanette E. McKenzie, Alexander McKenzie and Thomas O. McKenzie through their attorney, Ambrose Tighe.

Today Mr. Tighe consented to the overruling of the objections and that the will be allowed and probated, and to the appointment of Mr. Flannery as executor.

An order admitting the will to probate and for the appointment of Mr. Flannery as executor and an order for bond and letters testamentary were presented to Judge Wheeler for his signature today.

Mr. Flannery was ordered to deposit with the Northwestern Trust company all government, municipal and corporate bonds belonging to the estate subject to orders of the executor and Judge Wheeler fixed Mr. Flannery's bond at $50,000.

An amicable adjustment of the estate has been agreed upon by the heirs, Judge Wheeler was told.

SECRETARY OF THE TREASURY MELLON MAKES RULING THIS AFTERNOON

FOREIGN VESSELS, LIQUOR LADEN FOR BEVERAGE PURPOSES, ALSO IN BAD

(By United Press)
Washington, Oct. 11.—Secretary of the Treasury Mellon will issue a ruling this afternoon that American ships found in possession of liquor for "beverage purposes" will be subject to forfeiture to the American government, it was authoritatively learned here today.

Foreign vessels which enter the three miles limit after October 14 with liquor aboard will also be subject to seizure and forfeiture. American ships now in foreign ports which sail for America before October 14th will be exempt from forfeiture but those sailing after that date will be liable to confiscation if liquor is aboard, the Mellon ruling will hold.

Homeric May be Test Case
Southampton, England, Oct. 11.—The White Star liner Homeric sailed for New York today with its customary stores of liquor for the use of passengers.

Note—The arrival of the Homeric inside the American three mile limit will probably furnish a first test of the United States government power to seize foreign vessels entering its territorial waters with liquor aboard.

Lasker Clamps Lid
Washington, Oct. 11.—Chairman Lasker took additional precautions to impress every one concerned that there must be no delay in closing the bars on shipping board vessels, no matter where they may be.

Although the ban against the loading of liquor aboard is not to apply until Oct. 14, the chairman reiterated in a telegram to managing operators of the board's vessels that the lid already is down so far as sale and serving of drinks is concerned.

Order Forwarded
New York, Oct. 11.—Thomas H. Rossbottom, general manager of the United States Lines, operating passenger vessels of the United States shipping board, requested prohibition officials to begin removing all alcoholic beverages on shipping board vessels in his company's service, in this port.

WORLD'S GRAIN MARKET CENTER MAY SHIFT

MOVE FROM CHICAGO TO LIVERPOOL OR WINNIPEG, SAID SECRETARY MAUF

(By United Press)

Chicago, Oct. 11.—Liverpool or Winnipeg will become the world's grain market center in case legislation is enacted restricting trading on the Chicago Board of Trade, John R. Mauf, secretary of the world's leading grain market, told the Federal Trade commission investigators here today.

"Both Liverpool and Winnipeg are keeping a close watch on the movement to restrict the Chicago Board of Trade," Mauf said.

"And in case trading here is greatly hindered, the world's grain market will be transferred to one of those cities," This Mauf said would result in serious handicap to American grain producers.

Says Prohibition to Blame for Low Prices
Chicago, Oct. 11.—Prohibition is the main reason corn and oats are now below pre-war levels, Chicago Board of Trade officials told members of the Federal Trade Commission today.

Joseph P. Griffin, president of the board, explained that the department of agriculture in 1900 began a campaign to increase production of barley in this country. As a result of that drive, the production in barley was increased from 40,000 to 200,000 bushels in 1920.

With the 200,000 bushels a year surplus, says the O'Leone Engineers' Journal.

ADVERTISING DEPT. OF PAPER BOOSTS BRD. LAKE REGION

THREE MEMBERS AND FAMILIES SPENT SUMMER VACATION NEAR BRAINERD

PARTRIDGE SEASON, WITH BIG CROP OF BIRDS REPORTED, STARTS OCT. 15

Advertisements of Brainerd's Lake Region, its hunting and fishing, are appearing in the Des Moines, Iowa, Register and Tribune.

In replying to queries regarding advertising rates, W. C. Jackley, manager of the advertising department, wrote:

"You know, probably better than we do, the number of Iowans that go to Minnesota in the summer. We presume that Iowa is probably your best state to draw from. Just as an example, out of this display advertising department which has a personnel of twenty people, five members went to Minnesota for their vacation, and three of them with their families were in the Brainerd lake region."

Partridge Season Opens Soon

Many hunters are making preparations to come to the Brainerd Lake Region to hunt partridges. The season opens Sunday, October 15, and a luxuriant crop of birds is on hand. The Dispatch has received queries about cottages and resorts from Duluth, St. Paul and Minneapolis and has sent out Brainerd Lake Region literature.

Duck Hunting

Duck shooting in October is really better than in any other month. Captain Frank Winch, America's greatest authority on outdoor life, says pick a stormy day during the seasonal flight and there will be shooting that day and plenty of it.

Brooded Over Trouble And Killed Herself

(By United Press)

Minneapolis, Oct. 11.—Henel Victoria Schwartz, 20, wandered to the edge of Lake Calhoun early today and fired a bullet through her brain because for the first time in her life she was unhappy.

She was living apart from her husband, Lowell K. Schwartz, until they could establish a home of their own. "I will be back soon so don't worry," she told her mother, Mrs. John W. Kolsbun, St. Paul, as she left yesterday afternoon. She did not return.

Her body, clothed only in a light lavender dress, was found ten feet from the water. In a pocket of her dress was an envelope addressed to a St. Paul attorney. In it were three notes, one to her mother, one to her husband, and one to an insurance company.

The girl had worried about the possibility of any children she might have being insane, her mother said. An examiner for an insurance company for which she worked told her she was predisposed to insanity when she applied for a policy.

2 MORE IN JAIL AS INDIRECT PROBE IN MURDER OF RECTOR AND SINGER

(By United Press)
New Brunswick, Oct. 11.—Probe into the mysterious murder of Rev. Edward Wheeler Hall and Mrs. James Mills, centered today about Nicholas Bahmer and his daughter, Pearl, held in jail here.

Bahmer, confessed gun totter, was grilled as to his whereabouts on the night the millionaire rector and the choir singer, leaders in the church of St. John the Evangelist, were murdered on a farm near here.

Investigations, according to Prosecutor Strickler, showed that Bahmer was convicted four years ago of highway robbery and was sentenced to the workhouse.

Bahmer, former saloon keeper, who is held on charges preferred by his daughter, told authorities that he was in bed early on the night of the murder. Pearl, in a cell, was said by authorities to have contradicted the story of her father. The girl made a statement in which she said she and her father returned to their home shortly before midnight and that he was very angry with her.

"He cursed me and was in a horrible rage because I insisted on coming home from the park," the girl charged. "I went up to my room and saw him walking back and forth on the sidewalk muttering curses under his breath. I don't know whether he came back into the house or went somewhere."

New Brunswick, N. J., Oct. 11.—Two more were in jail today as the indirect result of the probe into the murder of Reverend Edward Wheeler Hall and Mrs. Eleanor Mills, leader of the choir of the church of St. John the Evangelist.

They are: Pearl Bahmer, the 15 year old motherless girl and the confessed sweetheart of Ray Schneider, on whose story the charge of first degree murder was lodged against his pal, Clifford Hayes. Nicholas Bahmer, father of the wayward Pearl who had boasted he went "gunning" for young Schneider with a borrowed 45 automatic on the night of September 14 when the millionaire minister and the wife of the church janitor were slain and their bodies laid out under a crab apple tree on the unoccupied Phillips farm.

Authorities are frank to admit that the arrest of the father and daughter will give them a good chance to quiz the pair to determine whether they have told all they know of the murder.

"BUTCHER MURDER" CONTINUES MYSTERY TO NEW YORK POLICE

TO SEVERED HUMAN HEAD AND MANGLED TORSO ARE ADDED ARM AND LEG

(By United Press)

New York, Oct. 11.—To the severed human head and mangled torso, parts of the corpus delicti in New York's brutal "butcher murder" were added today the left arm and left leg of the still unidentified victim.

The murderers of the man whose body, chopped to pieces, is being placed part by part on dark nights in various districts of the Bronx to be discovered and brought to the so far baffled police, may have gone too far this time, detectives working on the case declared.

From finger prints taken from the partly withered hand, the authorities hope to identify the victim and trace the perpetrators of one of the most fiendish crimes in police history, re-

The girl, Pearl, was brought before a judge on a charge of incorrigibility and after the hearing, the case was postponed until next week. Pearl, whom Schneider claims was the target for the bullets that killed the rector and the choir leader, admitted that she had been intimate with both Schneider and her father within the last year. Whereupon, Bahmer, saloon keeper, who admitted he had been "on a bat" for two days previous to September 14, when he started out after Schneider, was thrown behind the bars on the daughter's charge.

Bail was set for $10,000 which authorities believe will be impossible for him to raise.

This means that both father and daughter can be quizzed on a moment's notice concerning any new phase of the case.

Feeling here runs high against the detention of Hayes in jail on the story told by Schneider. A crowd surged about Detective Frank P. Kirby, one of the men who quizzed Schneider and menaced him for several minutes. Kirby was taken to the police station by officials who rescued him and the mob cooled off.

A "justice fund" has been started in New Brunswick for the defense of Hayes. Saturday was the day chosen as a tag day. At that time every citizen in New Brunswick will be asked to contribute to the fund.

On one side of the tag "Clifford Hayes justice fund" will be printed, and on the other side will be this line from John Ruskin: "The truth in one's heart does not fear a lie on the other's tongue."

Two prominent citizens, according to reliable authority, have come forward with information that shortly after the bodies of the rector and singer were found they discovered a basket filled with bloody rags.

According to this story the men returned shortly afterward with police, and the rags were missing.

George Totten, county detective of Somerset county, said that "We have just started to work on this case."

He was asked if it was possible that Schneider and Hayes were being held to divert suspicion, and answered: "Now you're talking."

Totten hinted that Reverend Hall and Mrs. Mills were killed before 1 a. m. as some authorities are lead to believe on the basis of the story told by Schneider.

FINAL MEETING OF MUDANIA CONFERENCE LASTED 10 MINUTES

Armistice Terms Represented the Utmost Concessions the Western Powers Could Make to the Turks; France, Italy Backed Britain

Signed by Great Britain, France, Italy, Greece and Turkey; Turks Signing at 11 O'Clock Last Night and the Allies at 6:35 A. M. Today

By United Press

Mudania, Oct. 11.—The Near Eastern armistice was signed by the allies at 6:35 o'clock this morning.

The final meeting of the Mudania conference lasted only ten minutes. Journalists were called into the room where the allied generals and Ismet Pasha, representative of the Turkish nationalists, affixed their signatures to the protocol.

The armistice terms represented the utmost concessions the western powers would make to the Turks. Previous to the conclusion of the armistice, Sir Charles Harrington, British commander-in-chief, notified Ismet Pasha that the protocol represented the final terms of the allies as he had the backing of both France and Italy.

Calling of the peace conference, which is designed to bring permanent peace in the Near East, is to come soon.

As far as is known, no action was taken on the suggestion of the French that the parley be held at Scutari, Turkey, on November 1.

Five copies of the armistice were signed. Copies were sent to each of the following countries after their representatives affixed their signatures: Great Britain, France, Italy, Greece and Turkey.

The Turks signed at 11 o'clock last night. The essence of the armistice follows:

1. The Greeks must evacuate Thrace. The Hellenic army must be out in two weeks, and the civil force shortly thereafter.
2. The Turkish gendarmerie may enter Thrace after an allied control of 45 days. The Turkish force of civil police must not exceed 8,000.

St. Paul, Oct. 11.—Heirs of the late Alexander McKenzie, for many years political leader in North Dakota, have dropped their legal battle over the estate.

McKenzie, died at St. Paul, June 23rd and objections to the will were filed in probate court by Jeanette E. McKenzie, Alexander McKenzie and Thomas O. McKenzie through their attorney, Ambrose Tighe.

Today Mr. Tighe consented to the overruling of the objections and that the will be allowed and probated, and to the appointment of Mr. Flannery as executor.

An order admitting the will to probate and for the appointment of Mr. Flannery as executor and an order for bond and letters testamentary were presented to Judge Wheeler for his signature today.

Mr. Flannery was ordered to deposit with the Northwestern Trust company all government, municipal and corporate bonds belonging to the estate subject to orders of the executor and Judge Wheeler fixed Mr. Flannery's bond at $50,000.

An amicable adjustment of the estate has been agreed upon by the heirs, Judge Wheeler was told.

Investigations, according to Prosecutor Strickler, showed that Bahmer was convicted four years ago of highway robbery and was sentenced to the workhouse.

Bahmer, former saloon keeper, who is held on charges preferred by his daughter, told authorities that he was in bed early on the night of the murder. Pearl, in a cell, was said by authorities to have contradicted the story of her father. The girl made a statement in which she said she and her father returned to their home shortly before midnight and that he was very angry with her.

"He cursed me and was in a horrible rage because I insisted on coming home from the park," the girl charged. "I went up to my room and saw him walking back and forth on the sidewalk muttering curses under his breath. I don't know whether he came back into the house or went somewhere."

New Brunswick, N. J., Oct. 11.—Two more were in jail today as the indirect result of the probe into the murder of Reverend Edward Wheeler Hall and Mrs. Eleanor Mills, leader of the choir of the church of St. John the Evangelist.

They are: Pearl Bahmer, the 15 year old motherless girl and the confessed sweetheart of Ray Schneider, on whose story the charge of first degree murder was lodged against his pal, Clifford Hayes. Nicholas Bahmer, father of the wayward Pearl who had boasted he went "gunning" for young Schneider with a borrowed .45 automatic on the night of September 14 when the millionaire minister and the wife of the church janitor were slain and their bodies laid out under a crab apple tree on the uncultivated Phillips farm.

Authorities are frank to admit that the arrest of the father and daughter will give them a good chance to quizz the pair to determine whether they have told all they know of the murder.

"BUTCHER MURDER" CONTINUES MYSTERY TO NEW YORK POLICE

(By United Press.)

New York, Oct. 11.—To the severed human head and mangled torso, parts of the corpus delicti in New York's brutal "butcher murder" were added today the left arm and left leg of the still unidentified victim.

The murderers of the man whose body, chopped to pieces, is being placed part by part on dark nights in various districts of the Bronx to be discovered and brought to the so far baffled police, may have gone too far this time, detectives working on the case declared.

From finger prints taken from the partly withered hand, the authorities hope to identify the victim and trace the perpetrators of one of the most fiendish crimes in police history, re-

The girl, Pearl, was brought before a judge on a charge of incorrigibility and after the hearing, the case was postponed until next week. Pearl, whom Schneider claims was the target for the bullets that killed the rector and the choir leader, admitted that she had been intimate with both Schneider and her father within the last year. Whereupon, Bahmer, saloon keeper, who admitted he had been "on a bat" for two days previous to September 14, when he started out after Schneider, was thrown behind the bars on the daughter's charge.

Bail was set for $10,000 which authorities believe will be impossible for him to raise.

This means that both father and daughter can be quizzed on a moment's notice concerning any new phase of the case.

Feeling here runs high against the detention of Hayes in jail on the story told by Schneider. A crowd surged about Detective Frank P. Kirby, one of the men who quizzed Schneider and menaced him for several minutes. Kirby was taken to the police station by officials who rescued him and the mob cooled off.

A "justice fund" has been started in New Brunswick for the defense of Hayes. Saturday was the day chosen as a tag day. At that time every citizen in New Brunswick will be asked to contribute to the fund.

On one side of the tag "Clifford Hayes justice fund" will be printed, and on the other side will be this line from John Ruskin: "The truth in one's heart does not fear a lie on the other's tongue."

Two prominent citizens, according to reliable authority, have come forward with information that shortly after the bodies of the rector and singer were found they discovered a basket filled with bloody rags.

According to this story the men returned shortly afterward with police, and the rags were missing.

George Totten, county detective of Somerset county, said that "We have just started to work on this case."

He was asked if it was possible that Schneider and Hayes were being held to divert suspicion, and answered: "Now you're talking."

calling the ghastly Seine murder that thrilled Paris.

In the Paris murder various parts of the nude and once beautiful body of a French girl were found scattered up and down the river Seine. The head was never recovered, nor the mystery solved.

$300,000 LUMBER DESTROYED IN FIRE

(By United Press.)

St. Paul, Oct. 11.—Seven engine companies were still pouring water on the ruins of $300,000 worth of lumber at the Twin City hardwood lumber yards at 9 a. m. today.

The fire started at midnight. Harry Widing, fireman, was overcome by smoke and taken to the city hospital. Four explosions rocked buildings in the vicinity during the fire.

They were believed to have been cressote tanks. Two box cars were destroyed in the fire.

DUNCAN A. MCINTYRE DEAD

Brother of Thomas McIntyre of Brainerd, Died at Puposky Near Bemidji

Duncan A. McIntyre, brother of Thomas McIntyre of this city, died Monday night in Puposky, a town on the Rainy Lake R. R., north of Bemidji. Results of influenza contracted several years ago, and from which he never recovered, together with pneumonia was the cause of his death.

Duncan McIntyre had always followed the life of a woodsman. He was very familiar with the old logging days of Michigan, Wisconsin and Northern Minnesota, being remembered by all of the old timers of that period.

For the past thirty years he has been a bookkeeper and laborer in the logging camps between Brainerd and Rainy Lake.

CANDIDATE LEAVES STATE FOR IOWA

"Mr. and Mrs. J. O. Ostby left on Tuesday for their new home at Miller, Iowa, where Mr. Ostby has a position in a bank," says the Pequot Review of October 6.

If this is true, Crow Wing county voters cannot see how Mr. Ostby can continue as a candidate for representative of Crow Wing county when his new residence is announced as being in Iowa.

Inquiry at the county auditor elicited the fact that no such announcement had been received from Mr. Ostby and that, so far as the auditor knew, he continued as a candidate.

SOCIALIST PARTY IN STATE IS DEAD; NO CANDIDATES LISTED

ORGANIZATION SWALLOWED UP BY THE TOWNLEY MOVEMENT, SAYS CHENEY

LEADERS AND HENCHMEN NOW ON THE PAYROLL OF NON-PARTISAN LEAGUE

In an article in the Minneapolis Journal, Charles B. Cheney writes: Socialists of Minnesota have been swallowed up by the Townley movement, and the socialist party no longer has legal standing, state officials said. No socialist candidate has filed for any office on the party ballot, so there will be no votes cast in November for the socialists, as socialists. Some former socialists are running as independents or "farmer-labor" candidates, backed by the Nonpartisan league.

Socialists of Minnesota still have a state organization and a number of "locals." They formed a campaign committee some months ago and sent an ultimatum to the Nonpartisan league. They demanded that two or three places be given them on the farmer-labor state ticket. If that were not done, they said, a complete socialist ticket would be nominated.

The bluff was not carried out. The party still had a legal standing this year, so it ran five candidates for state office in the 1929 election. All it needed to do was to get 500 voters to sign petitions putting up the socialist candidates. But no petitions were filed. The fact is the socialist workers of old are nearly all on the Nonpartisan league payroll, either in this or in other states, and the radical labor element which used to back socialist candidates now is lined up in the farmer-labor party. The old time socialists see in the new third party a chance to put the socialist theories in practice.

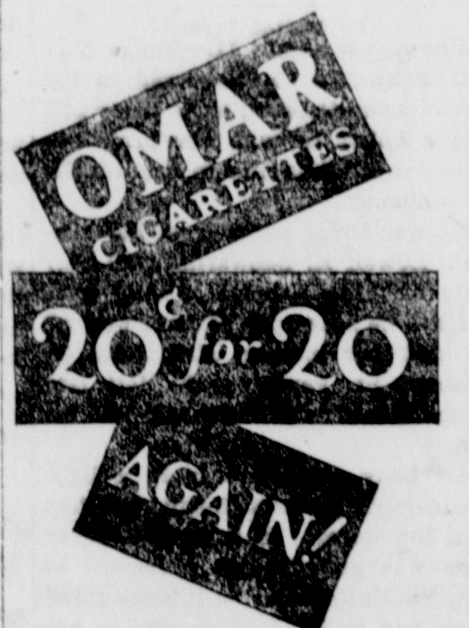

A. C. Townley, A. E. Bowen, Thos. Van Lear, H. C. Teigen and many others leading the farmer-labor movement are former socialists. They have taken their following with them into the new party, and the old socialist party is dead in Minnesota.

Under the state law, unless a party has candidates in an election and polls 1 per cent of the vote for them, it loses all right to the party name at the following election.

The socialist party disappeared long ago in North Dakota, the birthplace of the Townley league. It still is alive in Wisconsin, but voted this year to support Senator LaFollette and put up no candidate for the senate.

HOODOO WILL FACE TOUGH SLEDDING ON FRIDAY THE 13th

Lady Luck, shivering in the first cold breezes from Friday the 13th, lurking just around the corner, raised her head again today.

Four leaf clovers are traditional weapons of offense and defense against the perils of Hoodoo day.

And four leaf clovers never have been so plentiful as they are in Minnesota this year, experts in the clover chase said today.

Four leaf clovers and rabbit feet were gathered in Brainerd to ward off the jinx.

Day after tomorrow is Friday. Also it is the thirteenth day of the month. Which is a bad combination. A dangerous one.

Mortality among rabbits possessed of left hind feet is expected to be great through the next two days. Dealers of particular perspicacity have laid in stocks of left hind feet (and right ones, for it's hard to tell the difference when the rest of the rabbit is detached) in preparation for the day.

"The love that causes two hearts to beat as one does not guarantee a continuous performance," wrote the late Edgar Saltus. Denmark's "Liberty Loan" Issued upon the return of the Province of Slesvig to Denmark. The direct obligation of the Kingdom of Denmark, probably the most highly developed food producing and dairying nation in the world.

Non-callable Being non-callable for twenty years the holder has every advantage to be gained from the wide movement of advancing bond prices. Bond prices in Denmark are now moving upward much as the prices of Liberty Bonds did here a year ago.

Danish Krone The present value of the Danish krone is about 21 cents. Normal value 26.8 cents. The gradual recovery in agriculture, commerce and shipping which has restored the Swedish krone to parity with the dollar bids well to do the same for the Danish krone.

Investment Opportunity On basis of pre-war prices for Danish bonds this 5% bond would sell in Copenhagen at 116, which with exchange at normal rates would give the American holder of a 1,000 kroner bond a re-sale value of—$311.00

Brother of Thomas McIntyre of Brainerd, Died at Puposky Near Bemidji

Duncan A. McIntyre, brother of Thomas McIntyre of this city, died Monday night in Puposky, a town on the Rainy Lake R. R., north of Bemidji. Results of influenza contracted several years ago, and from which he never recovered, together with

Duncan McIntyre had always followed the life of a woodsman. He

CANDIDATE LEAVES

"Mr. and Mrs. J. O. Ostby left on Tuesday for their new home at Miller, Iowa, where Mr. Ostby has a position in a bank," says the Pequot
Review of October 6.

If this is true, Crow Wing county voters cannot see how Mr. Ostby can continue as a candidate for representative of Crow Wing county when his new residence is announced as being in Iowa.

Inquiry at the county auditor elicited the fact that no such announcement had been received from Mr. Ostby and that, so far as the auditor knew, he continued as a candidate.

SOCIALIST PARTY IN STATE IS DEAD; NO
CANDIDATES LISTED

ORGANIZATION SWALLOWED UP
BY THE TOWNLEY MOVE-MENT, SAYS CHENEY

LEADERS AND HENCHMEN NOW ON THE PAYROLL OF NON-PARTISAN LEAGUE

In an article in the Minneapolis
Journal, Charles B. Cheney writes:
Socialists of Minnesota have been swallowed up by the Townley movement, and the socialist party no longer has legal standing, state officials said. No socialist candidate has filed for any office on the party ballot, so there will be no votes cast in November for the socialists, as socialists.
Some former socialists are running as independents or "farmer-labor" candidates, backed by the Nonpartisan league.

Socialists of Minnesota still have a state organization and a number of "locals." They formed a campaign committee some months ago and sent an ultimatum to the Nonpartisan league. They demanded that two or three places be given them on the farmer-labor state ticket. If that were not done, they said, a complete socialist ticket would be nominated.

The bluff was not carried out. The party still had a legal standing this year, so it ran five candidates for state office in the 1920 election. All it needed to do was to get 500 voters to sign petitions putting up the socialist candidates. But no petitions were filed. The fact is the socialist workers of old are nearly all on the Nonpartisan league payroll, either in this or in other states, and the radical labor element which used to back socialist candidates now is lined up in the farmer-labor party. The old time socialists see in the new third party a chance to put the socialist theories in practice.

A. C. Townley, A. E. Bowen, Thos.
Van Lear, H. C. Teigen and many others leading the farmer-labor movement are former socialists. They have taken their following with them into the new party, and the old socialist party is dead in Minnesota.

Under the state law, unless a party has candidates in an election and polls 1 per cent of the vote for them, it loses all right to the party name at the following election.

The socialist party disappeared long ago in North Dakota, the birthplace of the Townley league. It still is alive in Wisconsin, but voted this year to support Senator LaFollette and put up no candidate for the senate.

HOODOO WILL FACE
TOUGH SLEDDING ON FRIDAY THE 13th

Lady Luck, shivering in the first cold breezes from Friday the 13th, lurking just around the corner, raised her head again today.

Four leaf clovers are traditional weapons of offense and defense against the perils of Hoodoo day.

And four leaf clovers never have been so plentiful as they are in Minnesota this year, experts in the clover chase said today.

Four leaf clovers and rabbit feet were gathered in Brainerd to ward off the jinx.

Day after tomorrow is Friday.
Also it is the thirteenth day of the month. Which is a bad combination. A dangerous one.

Mortality among rabbits possess-great through the next two days.

Dealers of particular perspicacity have laid in stocks of left hind feet (and right ones, for it's hard to tell the difference when the rest of the rabbit is detached) in preparation for the day.

TAX REDUCTION IS SLOGAN OF PREUS IN KEYNOTE TALK

Shows State Administration Has Taken Lead—Calls On Counties and Townships to Cut Expenses.

GOVERNOR J. A. O. PREUS.

Montevideo, Minn.—"Tax reduction" will be the battle cry of the republican party in the Minnesota campaign.

Governor J. A. O. Preus, in his keynote speech here, called attention to the fact that last year and this year, for the first time in Minnesota's history, the people have been relieved of a direct tax for maintaining the state government, but said that such action is only the beginning of a state-wide program for general tax reduction.

Due to the public's demand for better roads, schools, public buildings, and "better everything," the governor stated, "tax rates have almost reached the breaking point." He called for a united program of economy extending from the school district, township, village, town, and city to the state government itself.

Governor Preus said in part: "Last year, for the first time in the history of the State of Minnesota, the people were relieved of a direct tax upon them for maintaining the government of the state, including all activities under the state officials elected by you, as well as all appointive officers named by the governor.

"The entire cost of state government and state institutions was paid for out of taxes collected from corporations such as the gross earnings tax on railroads and other public service corporations and departmental fees.

"This year, for the second time in the history of the state, the people will pay no direct tax for the maintenance of the state government, and this is largely due to the fact that the occupation tax upon the business of mining from ore was placed upon the statute books."

Mr. Preus stated that this achievement was in line with the republican state platform, which pledges the party to "the greatest retrenchment possible in state expenditures."

So important does he consider the need for lower taxes, Governor Preus added, that he decided to confine his opening speech to this topic alone, leaving other subjects to future addresses.

Causes of advanced taxes in recent years were outlined by the governor as follows:

High price of labor and commodities.

Expansion of governmental functions.

Public demand for better public service, better educational facilities, better public buildings, better health and sanitation regulations, better roads, "better everything."

"Salaries represent a very small percentage of the total public expenses," the governor said. If they were entirely wiped out the reduction in taxes would be so small as to be scarcely noticeable. Of the total general property taxes levied in 1921, amounting to $108,019,763, only $3,659,451 was levied for purely state purposes, and of the latter amount $2,634,832 was levied for soldiers' bonuses.

Education Costs Advance.

The governor pointed out tax levies for educational purposes in Minnesota in 1921 amounted to $42,589,238, representing nearly 39 1/2 cents of each dollar paid or to be paid in taxes this year. In 1911, he said, the cost per pupil was $27.72, and in 1921, $82.26.

"Much may be said in justification of increased educational costs," he added. "The days of the 'little red school house,' have gone, just as the days of the ox cart and the sickle. Under the improved living conditions of today, the unsanitary school building of a generation ago, would not be tolerated now. Improved school buildings which we now demand and enjoy are a considerable factor in the growth of school taxes.

"Another factor in growing school costs is the increase in the salaries of teachers. A cheap teacher is a poor investment, just as a cheap man on the farm or in the factory is almost sure to be an expensive one in the end.

"Economy in school expenditures should be rigidly applied if growing school costs are to be halted. Let us have good school buildings with up-to-date equipment, and let us pay salaries that are sufficiently high to attract and retain competent teacher BUT IF WE ARE INDULGING I

ANY FADS OR FRILLS OF DOUBTFUL UTILITY, let us eliminate them, and thus lighten the burden of the taxpayer.

Growth in Road Taxes. "In percentage of increase in amount of taxes, the levies for roads and bridges lead all others, the increase being 1,816 per cent in the last 20 years.

"In 1921, the total levies for roads amounted to $21,040,655, or nearly 19 1/2 per cent of all direct taxes levied in that year. To this amount should be added $5,616,113, representing taxes on motor vehicles.

"While the economic value of good highways is conceded, their construction should not be pushed too rapidly, lest the burden on the taxpayer become so great that it will retard development along other lines.

County Taxes Go Up.

"The increase in county taxes, exclusive of road and bridge levies, has been quite large, though smaller than for education or roads.

"City, village, and township taxes also have grown. Factors entering into the increase in cities and villages are the extension of water and sewage systems, better paved and better lighted streets, the improvement of parks and playgrounds and better living conditions generally.

"Inasmuch as the amount of township taxes to be raised in any year is determined at the annual town meeting, the burden of town taxes is under the direct control of the people who pay them. If the burden is heavy the people themselves are responsible for it.

"The growth in the tax burden during the last five years has probably been felt more in the last year or two in the rural than in the urban districts of the state, due to the less favorable economic conditions prevailing in rural districts. The farmer, having but little to say in fixing the price of things he produces, has not been able to protect himself to the same extent as the manufacturer or the merchant.

"The farmer's tax burden, measured by the exchange value of his products, has grown extremely heavy in the last year or two.

"It is worthy of note that both principal levies under direct control of the people who pay the taxes—the local school district levies and the town road and bridge levies—show a large increase in the five year period, the former amounting to nearly 150 per cent and the latter to a little over 200 per cent.

"These levies show very conclusively that taxes under direct control of the people of the rural districts have increased more rapidly than taxes levied by the elected officials of the different units of government.

"It is also worthy of note that of each dollar levied in taxes in the rural districts last year and payable this year, education will receive nearly 41 cents and roads and bridges nearly 35 1/2 cents, or a combined total of about 76 1/2 cents.

"High tax rates are not always an unmixed evil. They are often entirely justifiable, and frequently commendable. In many cases the benefits derived from the levies fully compensate for high rates.

"If high rates are the result of desirable and needed public improvements, and if the taxpayer is able to meet the demand without finding the tax burdensome, then they are preferable to low rates and dry rot.

"But if a desirable public improvement will result in a tax rate so high as to become an oppressive burden, then the making of the improvement, however desirable it may be, should be deferred until the taxpayer is better able to meet the extra demands on his pocketbook. High tax rates are not necessarily bad; oppressive tax rates are absolutely bad."

Taxes Near Oppressive Point.

The governor stated that there has been much "passing the buck" as to the responsibility for higher taxes, and added:

"No single unit of government can be charged with the entire responsibility. Expenses have grown in one unit as rapidly as in another.

"However, regardless of responsibility, tax rates have almost reached the breaking point. Whether the excessive rates now so generally prevailing throughout the state are due to the expansion of governmental functions, or whether they are the result of the insistent public demand for better roads, better schools, and better other things, the fact remains that tax rates have almost reached the limit of the taxpayer's ability to pay.

"Any further increase in the already heavy burden will be almost sure to retard the future agricultural, industrial and commercial development of the state.

"The remedy lies in rigid economy on the part of each unit of government—in the school district, in the township, in the city and in the state alike—and in the halting for the present of any further increase in those activities of government calling for heavy tax levies. Let bond issues for improvements be made only after the most thorough consideration. Let not the tax burden become so heavy as to oppress the people."

The governor spoke briefly of some of the achievements of his administration, showing how the republican platform promises of two years ago had been fulfilled. Among the most important legislation mentioned was the law authorizing organization and operation of co-operative concerns, under which hundreds of creameries and livestock associations are prospering, and the occupation or iron ore tax, which he said is expected to bring the state $4,000,000 a year. Minnesota's great hard surface road program, now in successful progress, also was cited.

MUSICAL CLUB ADDING MEMBERS

Being Playground of America, Membership Committee Disbands in the Summer Time

CLUB MEETS SATURDAY, OCT. 14

Singer Will be Miss Mable Pelletier, of Minneapolis, a Famous Contralto

It is unfortunate that it should be necessary for the membership committee of the Musical club to canvass the city for members each autumn. It would seem as if, to parody a familiar saying, "once a member always a member" should apply to this splendid organization, which gives so much for its membership fee.

But, in this playground, such an organization becomes so thoroughly disbanded, during the summer months, that only a canvasser for members can re-unite them and put them in shape for work. This being true, any criticism of the Musical club as such during the summer months is wide of the mark, for there is no Musical club between May and October.

There wasn't a board meeting from the time the committee was appointed for Home Coming week in June until September when the board met again to elect delegates to the M. F. W. C. convention at Bemidji. But, according to the reports coming in from the various members of the membership committee, there will be a large club again this year, and one that can be depended upon to support any worthy musical enterprise whether under the club's auspices or not.

The first meeting of the Musical club will be at Elks hall next Saturday afternoon, at three o'clock, the president, Mrs. J. A. Thabes being hostess. As usual, the new teachers in our city schools will be guests of the club at this meeting.

The singer will be Miss Mable Pelletier, of Minneapolis. She is a contralto and Carlo Fischer says she was the success of the municipal opera season in Minneapolis.

The first artist's recital will occur Sunday, Oct. 22nd.

The artist is Maurice Dumesnil, a French pianist of such repute that the Chickering piano company considers it worth their while to not only furnish him a concert grand piano, but to send an expert tuner along to keep it in perfect condition.

During the war, Dumesnil went to Buenos Aires, which is said to be the greatest operatic city in the world, but one of the poorest fields for the concert pianist. Scarcely two hundred people attended his first concert. But before the end of the season, the house was always sold out, when Dumesnil was billed. He returned the next season and enjoyed a vogue not even surpassed by Paderewski.

OTHER PEOPLES OPINIONS SAYS TACOMA SHOPMEN BACK TO WORK

In a letter to the Dispatch, Henry Johnson writes:

"Rumors were around by the striking shopmen that only two men, that is to say union men, went back to work in the S. P. Shops in South Tacoma, Washington shops. To tell the truth of the matter, I just came back from Washington. I have been there in Tacoma at my mother's sick bed, and the six or seven days I have been there, I found out the shops in South Tacoma, Washington, are working with full force.

"My brother-in-law lives on Vine street and he is a switchman for the N. P. railroad. He told me most of those strikers went back to work who went out the first of July and everything is working fine and the men are getting along fine, and while I stayed there at my brother-in-law, I got acquainted with a machinist who are neighbors next to my brother-in-law, and they told me they went back two weeks ago to work and everything is all right and getting along fine, and those two men were fine fellows.

"I am not on strike, neither do I work for the N. P. railroad. I only give the facts as I found them the time I have been in Washington."

Respectfully, HENRY JOHNSON

Babcock-Anderson

Miss Ivy M. Anderson and Amos B. Babcock were married on Tuesday afternoon Oct. 10, the ceremony being performed by Rev. Walter J. Smith at his residence in Brainerd.

The bride is a daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Ole Anderson of Daggett Brook. The bridesmaid was Miss Bertha Fuchs. They both carried pink roses. Clifford Anderson, brother of the bride, acted as best man.

The groom is a prosperous young farmer of St. Mathias township, and the happy couple will make their home on the farm. They have the best wishes of a host of friends for their future happiness.

Of the total general property taxes levied in 1921, amounting to $108,019,763, only $3,653,451 was levied for purely state purposes, and of the latter amount $2,634,832 was levied for soldiers' bonuses.

Education Costs Advance.
The governor pointed out tax levies for educational purposes in Minnesota in 1921 amounted to $42,569,238, representing nearly 39 1/2 cents of each dollar paid or to be paid in taxes this year. In 1911, he said, the cost per pupil was $27.72, and in 1921, $32.26.

"Much may be said in justification of increased educational costs," he added. "The days of the 'little red school house,' have gone, just as the days of the ox cart and the sickle. Under the improved living conditions of today, the unsanitary school building of a generation ago, would not be tolerated now. Improved school buildings which we now demand and enjoy are a considerable factor in the growth of school taxes.

"Another factor in growing school costs is the increase in the salaries of teachers. A cheap teacher is a poor investment, just as a cheap man on the farm or in the factory is almost sure to be an expensive one in the end.

"Economy in school expenditures should be rigidly applied if growing school costs are to be halted. Let us have good school buildings with up-to-date equipment, and let us pay salaries that are sufficiently high to attract and retain competent teacher BUT IF WE ARE INDULGING I.

ANY FADS OR FRILLS OF DOUBTFUL UTILITY, let us eliminate them, and thus lighten the burden of the taxpayer.

Growth in Road Taxes.
"In percentage of increase in amount of taxes, the levies for roads and bridges lead all others, the increase being 1.816 per cent in the last 20 years.

"In 1921, the total levies for roads amounted to $21,040,655, or nearly 19 1/2 per cent of all direct taxes levied in that year. To this amount should be added $5,616,113, representing taxes on motor vehicles.

"While the economic value of good highways is conceded, their construction should not be pushed too rapidly, lest the burden on the taxpayer become so great that it will retard development along other lines.

County Taxes Go Up.
"The increase in county taxes, exclusive of road and bridge levies, has been quite large, though smaller than for education or roads.

"City, village, and township taxes also have grown. Factors entering into the increase in cities and villages are the extension of water and sewage systems, better paved and better lighted streets, the improvement of parks and playgrounds and better living conditions generally.

"Inasmuch as the amount of township taxes to be raised in any year is determined at the annual town meeting, the burden of town taxes is under the direct control of the people who pay them. If the burden is heavy the people themselves are responsible for it.

"The growth in the tax burden during the last five years has probably been felt more in the last year or two in the rural than in the urban districts of the state, due to the less favorable economic conditions prevailing in rural districts. The farmer, having but little to say in fixing the price of things he produces, has not been able to protect himself to the same extent as the manufacturer or the merchant.

"The farmer's tax burden, measured by the exchange value of his products, has grown extremely heavy in the last year or two.

"It is worthy of note that both principal levies under direct control of the people who pay the taxes—the local school district levies and the town road and bridge levies—show a large increase in the five year period, the former amounting to nearly 150 per cent and the latter to a little over 208 per cent.

"These levies show very conclusively that taxes under direct control of the people of the rural districts have increased more rapidly than taxes levied by the elected officials of the different units of government.

"It is also worthy of note that of each dollar levied in taxes in the rural districts last year and payable this year, education will receive nearly 41 cents and roads and bridges nearly 35 1/2 cents, or a combined total of about 76 1/2 cents.

"High tax rates are not always an unmixed evil. They are often entirely justifiable, and frequently commendable. In many cases the benefits derived from the levies fully compensate for high rates.

"If high rates are the result of desirable and needed public improvements, and if the taxpayer is able to meet the demand without finding the tax burdensome, then they are preferable to low rates and dry rot.

"But if a desirable public improvement will result in a tax rate so high as to become an oppressive burden, then the making of the improvement, however desirable it may be, should be deferred until the taxpayer is better able to meet the extra demands on his pocketbook. High tax rates are not necessarily bad; oppressive tax rates are absolutely bad."

Taxes Near Oppressive Point.
The governor stated that there has been much "passing the buck" as to the responsibility for higher taxes, and added:

"No single unit of government can be charged with the entire responsibility. Expenses have grown in one unit as rapidly as in another.

"However, regardless of responsibility, tax rates have almost reached the breaking point. Whether the excessive rates now so generally prevailing throughout the state are due to the expansion of governmental functions, or whether they are the result of the insistent public demand for better roads, better schools, and better other things, the fact remains that tax rates have almost reached the limit of the taxpayer's ability to pay. Any further increase in the already heavy burden will be almost sure to retard the future agricultural, industrial and commercial development of the state.

"The remedy lies in rigid economy on the part of each unit of government—in the school district, in the township, in the city and in the state alike—and in the halting for the present of any further increase in those activities of government calling for heavy tax levies. Let bond issues for improvements be made only after the most thorough consideration. Let not the tax burden become so heavy as to oppress the people."

The governor spoke briefly of some of the achievements of his administration, showing how the republican platform promises of two years ago had been fulfilled. Among the most important legislation mentioned was the law authorizing organization and operation of co-operative concerns, under which hundreds of creameries and livestock associations are prospering, and the occupation or iron ore tax, which he said is expected to bring the state $4,000,000 a year. Minnesota's great hard surface road program, now in successful progress, also was cited.

MUSICAL CLUB ADDING MEMBERS

Being Playground of America, Membership Committee Disbands in the Summer Time

CLUB MEETS SATURDAY, OCT. 14

Singer Will be Miss Mable Peltier, of Minneapolis, a Famous Contralto

It is unfortunate that it should be necessary for the membership committee of the Musical club to canvass the city for members each autumn. It would seem as if, to parody a familiar saying, "once a member always a member" should apply to this splendid organization, which gives so much for its membership fee.

But, in this playground, such an organization becomes so thoroughly disbanded, during the summer months, that only a canvass for members can re-unite them and put them in shape for work. This being true, any criticism of the Musical club as such during the summer months is wide of the mark, for there is no Musical club between May and October.

There wasn't a board meeting from the time the committee was appointed for Home Coming week in June until September when the board met again to elect delegates to the M. F. W. C. convention at Bemidji. But, according to the reports coming in from the various members of the membership committee, there will be a large club again this year, and one that can be depended upon to support any worthy musical enterprise whether under the club's auspices or not.

The first meeting of the Musical club will be at Elks hall next Saturday afternoon, at three o'clock, the president, Mrs. J. A. Thabes being hostess. As usual, the new teachers in our city schools will be guests of the club at this meeting.

The singer will be Miss Mable Peltier, of Minneapolis. She is a contralto and Carlo Fischer says she was the success of the municipal opera season in Minneapolis.

The first artist's recital will occur Sunday, Oct. 22nd.

The artist is Maurice Dumesnil, a French pianist of such repute that the Chickering piano company considers it worth their while to not only furnish him a concert grand piano, but to send an expert tuner along to keep it in perfect condition.

During the war, Dumesnil went to Buenos Aires, which is said to be the greatest operatic city in the world, but one of the poorest fields for the concert pianist. Scarcely two hundred people attended his first concert. But before the end of the season, the house was always sold out, when Dumesnil was billed. He returned the next season and enjoyed a vogue not even surpassed by Paderewski.

OTHER PEOPLES OPINIONS SAYS TACOMA SHOPMEN BACK TO WORK

In a letter to the Dispatch, Henry Johnson writes:

"Rumors were around by the striking shopmen that only two men, that is to say union men, went back to work in the P. Shops in South Tacoma, Washington shops. To tell the truth of the matter, I just came back from Washington. I have been there in Tacoma at my mother's sick bed, and the six or seven days I have been there I found out the shops in South Tacoma, Washington, are working with full force.

"My brother-in-law lives on Vine street and he is a switchman for the N. P. railroad. He told me most of those strikers went back to work who went out the first of July and everything is working fine and the men are getting along fine, and while I stayed there at my brother-in-law, I got acquainted with a machinist who are neighbors next to my brother-in-law, and they told me they went back two weeks ago to work and everything is all right and getting along fine, and those two men were fine fellows.

"I am not on strike, neither do I work for the N. P. railroad. I only give the facts as I found them the time I have been in Washington."

Respectfully,
HENRY JOHNSON

SUNDAY SCHOOL CONVENTION

There are few conventions in the state of Minnesota that have a wider range of people interested in their purpose and program than the convention of the Minnesota Sunday School Association which meets in annual convention in Brainerd, October 19-22 of this year.

There are few parents in a city like Brainerd whose children are not in some Sunday school. Whether parents are Protestant or Catholic they are intent upon seeing to it that their children are given a religious education. The children of Catholic parents not only receive the instruction which may be arranged for certain hours of the Sabbath, but during the week this education is supplemented by instruction of a religious character. The result of this is that the child from the Catholic home is given a very definite knowledge of the teaching of his church. However, Protestant parents are not usually so enthusiastic about providing a religious education for their children as are their Catholic neighbors. And yet the people of both of these two branches of the church are agreed that religious education is essential if a child is to grow up with a sense of relation to the spiritual order.

The convention of the association helps to stimulate interest in this part of a child's education and is of considerable importance to any city because of this contribution to its thought. In the presence of the appalling increase in the number of criminals, who in their early teens find themselves convicted of crimes, there is an increasing interest in providing those foundations of character, the building of which is the purpose of the Sunday school.

Just to what extent the failure of the Sunday school to fulfill its function is responsible for the break-down of the morale of young people cannot be properly apporportioned. This, however, is known. There are many children in Minnesota, and a considerable number in Crow Wing county, who are not given the foundation of character which the Sunday school attempts to build. Leaders in the Sunday school movement are ready to confess that the methods employed in the Sunday schools of the state are not in all cases the most satisfactory. In many cases the teachers are untrained, and in many churches there is a very evident indifference to the needs of the children. There are many who do not see that the children of today will be the religious leaders of tomorrow. However, as stress is being placed upon the need of education as a means of changing the character of the thinking of the race, and as the hope of a generation that shall be a wonderful advance on anything that the world has known, people are coming to realize that the place of religious education in the life of the child cannot be over-emphasized. H. G. Wells sees in the education of all the people a means of bringing in the golden age, and he allows that one of the first interests, one of the greatest forces for improving the race is its religion.

If the coming of the convention to Brainerd results in an increased interest in providing a thorough religious education for the children of the city it will be worth what it costs. It is taken from city to city through the state for just this purpose, the stimulating of the interest of the citizens in the place where it convenes in giving the children of this age a religious background against which everything in their lives will stand out.

There are always a few who sense the importance of such training and, occasionally, a business man is found who devotes a great deal of his time to Sunday school work. In Brainerd, the most significant example of this service for the youth of the city, is seen in the splendid work of H. F. Michael who set out to thoroughly understand the principles underlying religious education and who, having most efficiently handled a large Sunday school, is now in demand as a speaker who can tell something of the problems of such work and how they may be successfully met. Many more men will be needed in this work if the condition of child delinquency that looks us in the face every day is to be successfully met and the children saved from the pitfalls of life. The final decision is this: Are we more willing to provide a strong police force to protect property and life than we are to supply a religious education that will safeguard life and property by checking the harvest of criminals? This choice is always with the race, and it may have one or the other.

Brainerd will look forward to the enthusiasm in Sunday school work that will inevitably result from the gathering of the Sunday school workers of Minnesota in Brainerd for their annual convention.

NATIONAL DAIRY EXPOSITION

THE dairy show is attracting people from all over the United States to the grounds of the Minnesota State Fair that contain the most valuable display of livestock ever assembled in Minnesota. From all parts of the country pedigreed cattle have been brought to this exposition to compete for prizes to the amount of $35,000. But the profit accruing to those who attend this national exposition is not to be found merely in looking over the fine exhibits that are on view but in the educational features that are a part of the show. Speakers of prominence from various parts of the United States will tell of the problems that meet the farmer in their widely scattered states, and of how these problems have been most successfully met. The governors of states adjacent to Minnesota, whose home states face problems akin to those met in Minnesota, will speak to the assembled crowds. Experts in diversified farming will seek to instruct the farmers of this and other states who attend the show on how they may best conquer the difficulties arising from the over-production of certain specific crops with a resultant over-stocking of the market; and how by diversified farming they may avoid putting all their eggs in one basket, so that if the market is against them on certain products they may satisfactorily market other produce.

Instruction will be given as to the most advantageous manner of handling several lines of production and the local problems will be considered by experts able to offer valuable suggestions.

Crow Wing county is not behind others in its interest in this show. Both merchants and farmers, who will be equally benefited by the development of diversified farming in Crow Wing county which is, more than many other counties, splendidly adapted to dairying, are going down to the show in a monster procession of automobiles on the 12th of October.

P. M. Zakariasen, County Agent E. G. Roth, A. J. Hayes, and others who have sought to promote interest in this show and to secure a large attendance of Crow Wing county people, are helping to build up this county's agricultural interests, over which the Chamber of Commerce has showed itself to be alert.

SPEECH OF SEN.

ARTHUR CAPPER
OF KANSAS

DELIVERED AT OWATONNA, AFTERNOON OF OCT. 10; AUSTIN, EVENING OF OCT. 10

Senator Arthur Capper, of Kansas, in his speech delivered at Owatonna Tuesday afternoon, and at Austin the same evening, gave a record of achievements of the Harding administration and showed the part Senator Kellogg has played in aiding the administration. He said:

There is one thing, I think, on which everybody can agree. There was handed to President Harding on March 4, 1921, the most tangled and disorganized wreck of governmental affairs that has ever been presented by one administration to another. Few people realize what an enormous task confronted the Harding administration. It had an almost impossible job—to bring order out of chaos. We hear many people complaining because progress has been slow. The trouble is they are not giving the administration credit for what it has actually accomplished.

The total of the money expended for war purposes and the property lost in the late war was $338,000,000,000—a sum which we are incapable of comprehending except by comparison. The losses of this war were equivalent to wiping out all of the property in the United States twice over.

Do you wonder that the world and we, as a part of the world, are suffering from exhaustion and depression, and are staggering under taxes such as we have never before experienced?

No political party—Democratic or Republican—could bring back prosperity at once under such conditions.

I am here to say that President Harding, keeping in mind that he has an almost impossible task, has given us as good an administration as was humanly possible. The vast work of reconstructing the shattered finances, the disordered commerce, and the disturbed relations of an entire nation have all been handled in a way that must challenge the admiration of fair-minded people.

Vast economies have been effected in every department. Efficiency has been restored. Taxes have been materially reduced. A great international disarmament conference has been held which for the quality of statesmanship exhibited and magnitude of accomplishments will endure as one of the great achievements of history. It will save the United States hundreds of millions of dollars annually in the reduction of armaments and preparation for war.

The administration found a national debt of $24,000,000,000 and an annual interest charge of $1,000,000,000. This indebtedness has been reduced 3 billions in two years.

The cost of running the government is being steadily cut down. In 1920 the expenditures had been reduced to $6,500,000,000 by putting an end to war work through the economy of a Republican congress.

In 1921, good business methods introduced by the new administration further reduced the operating appropriations to $4,750,000,000.

For the fiscal year just closed, this $4.75 billions of expense has been brought down to $3,909,000,000 and we are not through yet.

Not only have we reduced the total sum of federal taxation by about $1,000,000,000 a year, but we have reduced it to such a point that the government of the United States collects from its citizens per capita about one-third as much federal taxes as does the government of Great Britain.

Ours is the only great nation that since the war has reduced expenses year by year. It has all the time kept the outgo inside the income, making it possible to reduce the national debt, while other nations have increased their debts.

One reason why all this has been done is because this administration promptly passed a budget law, which had been vetoed by President Wilson. It is the greatest measure known to any government for reducing expenses in the routine of government. It has already aided in achieving the extraordinary reduction of two billion dollars in our public funded debt, 700 million in our floating debt, and nearly a billion dollars a year in taxation.

We also passed a new revenue law which reduced the burden of taxes upon the people by nearly another billion dollars a year.

The number of government employees at Washington has been reduced by nearly 40,000 since January, 1921, and further reductions are being made every month. Let me remark right here that it is the easiest thing on earth to create an office; but the hardest thing on earth to abolish an office.

We found Liberty bonds selling for 85 cents on the dollar. We brought them to par.

We found an army of 230,000 men. We have reduced it to 130,000 men.

We found a navy of 133,765. We have reduced it to 95,000.

We have put an end to the mad rush of competitive naval expansion and construction. Many old ships are being scrapped. This year we have a decrease of one hundred and twenty-five millions in naval appropriations, with still greater reductions to follow.

This Congress has done some big outstanding things from which we shall always benefit. No president and no Congress has ever shown such interest in the farmer. It has passed more legislation to encourage and build up agriculture than any other half dozen Congresses before it.

It revived the War Finance Corporation Act and appropriated one billion dollars to be lent to farmers and stockmen and co-operative associations. This measure saved thousands of farmers from disaster.

It passed the co-operative marketing bill, the anti-grain gambling bill, the packer control act, the bill to place a dirt farmer on the federal reserve board, the bill enlarging the activities of the farm loan board and the agricultural emergency tariff law.

Before the Republican party came into power on March 4, 1921, millions of pounds of wool and mutton from Australia, millions of bushels of wheat from Canada and corn from South America had been dumped upon our market and helped to depress prices. The good effects of the emergency tariff law soon became apparent in the advancing price of both wool and cotton. The steadily declining prices for wheat were checked and the American markets soon showed a differential of about 20 cents a bushel over the Canadian market.

The bill making provision for an additional treasury deposit of $25,000,000 for the Farm Loan Board made available for that important farm loan agency a total working capital of $50,000,000. It placed the farm loan board and banks for the first time since their organization in position to function continuously and we are now making loans amounting to a million dollars a day to the farmers of the nation.

It is true that some of the emergency measures did not accomplish all that was hoped or expected. The fact is that the national emergency was so great and so wide-spread that it was impossible to meet it satisfactorily with rushed legislation.

You have no doubt heard of a group of senators known as the "Farm Bloc." I am very proud to be chairman of this bloc. The only difference between the agricultural bloc and the Wall Street bloc and other big interest blocs, which have been busy for thirty years, is that the latter blocs always work under cover while the agricultural bloc operates in the open.

The farm bloc, as you may have noticed, has been the target for much abuse, even ridicule. This criticism has come from those who don't understand the country's need of this bloc, but mostly it has come from the privileged interest which have been "blocking" congress for years. The farm bloc senators don't mind the criticism, so long as it doesn't interfere with getting things done. But when it does interfere, they stand still before they can go on as before. We therefore have had more or less of a constant scrap with these outside interests.

However, it is a great satisfaction to know we are fighting for what is right. And there is always this difference between the farm bloc and all other blocs which for years have existed in congress. The farm bloc is not out to block anything that is for this country's good; it supports everything that is likely to help the well-being of all the people. But the one thing that it does insist upon is that henceforth nobody shall be allowed to put any more blocks in the way of the big industry that keeps all the other industries going.

We are out to get a square deal for agriculture and we are going to keep fighting until we do get it.

I want you to notice one thing. President Harding has promptly signed every farm bloc measure enacted by congress. He also has endorsed the other measures favored by the bloc which have not yet been passed by congress.

The bloc has still many important things to accomplish. One of them is a credit plan which will be of speedy and immense value to the farming industry. The farmer must have better prices for his products than he is receiving now or he will soon be put out of business. He cannot get better prices unless he has a credit system that will enable him to market his products in an orderly way. The bloc is endeavoring to have enacted into law a system of 1, 2 and 3 year credit for farmers based on their products as collateral. It is more money we are asking for the farmer, but we want a credit system and an interest rate adapted to his needs and that will give him a chance to stay in business.

The farm bloc believes and I believe that freight rates are too high and must come down. These high freight rates have hit the farmers doubly hard because the farmer gets the freight added to everything he buys and the freight is taken off of everything he sells. It is this fact that makes an immediate and deep cut in rail rates on farm products and other commodities so urgent.

This administration must be given credit for bringing about a reduction of 400 million dollars in freight rates, but we need another and a greater cut.

I want the carriers to have a fair return on their investment, but the people are entitled to still further reductions in transportation charges. I have a bill before the senate to repeal the so-called guarantee clause, Section 15a, of the Esch-Cummins Act, and to restore control of local rates to state commissions. I believe the question of transportation charges will never again be on a satisfactory basis until all the objectionable provisions of the Esch-Cummins Act are repealed.

The great abuse of the tax-free privilege is blocking the industrial growth of the country and the masses of the people pay for it in higher charges, higher rates, higher prices and in excessive taxes. The remedy is a constitutional amendment prohibiting all tax-exempt securities. I am glad to say the farm bloc is doing everything possible to put it through.

I believe that for the next quarter-century the outstanding policy of this nation should be the carrying out of a great constructive program for the upbuilding of its farm and live stock industry. The farm bloc has such a program well started in congress. If all its measures are enacted, they will lay a broad foundation on what may be erected the world's best and most enduring system of agriculture. That would mean the upbuilding of what would be the world's most enduring and most widespread and genuine national prosperity.

You Minnesota people are to be warmly congratulated on the type of Senator you have in Frank B. Kellogg. He is one of the big men of that body. We in the senate have come to have a deep respect for his character as a man, his learning as a lawyer and statesman, and his patriotic devotion to his country.

You are too familiar with his record for me to take time to recite it to you. His splendid fight for preparedness in the days before America's entrance into the great war, his contributions to the numerous war measures, all of which were made sounder by his efforts, and many of which would have been even better had his advice been followed by the Democratic majority then in control of Congress, are an old story in Minnesota. His tremendous fight to obtain a fair price for wheat during war time when the selfish interests of other sections sought to beat down the price is known not alone in Minnesota but throughout the great grain-growing sections of the country. That victory stamped him not only as a staunch but a wise friend of the producing classes of this country, on whose welfare the prosperity of all the rest depends.

Without parading or over-emphasizing his devotion to the great agricultural producing population, Senator Kellogg has been one of the best friends the farmer ever has had in congress. He was championing the just cause of the producers before many who have since become conspicuous in their championship were unknown outside the borders of their own states. Never has that loyalty to his home people ever lessened but always has the doughty Minnesota fighter been in the forefront of the fray.

Senator Kellogg is an active and valued member of the Farm Bloc. He has been an author of some and an advocate of all the great measures calculated to encourage and stimulate agriculture that have been enacted during the administration of President Harding. He is the author of the bill that places a dirt farmer on the Federal Reserve Board. He was the author of the bill, substituted for the Norris bill, authorizing the war finance corporation to approve loans on grain, livestock and other farm products which had the effect of relieving in great measure the financial depression under which agriculture suffered so severely during 1920 and later. Under the provisions of this bill more than $17,000,000 was advanced to farmers through institutions in Minnesota alone.

Besides these measures of which Senator Kellogg was the author, is a long list of measures to relieve agriculture which have had his support in framing and passing. In all of these agricultural bills grave and legal problems were involved and his abilities as a great lawyer were always at the service of those of us devoid of legal learning in meeting the legal difficulties encountered. It has been a fine thing for the farm bloc and for the champions of this progressive legislation that we have the legal services of Frank Kellogg in meeting our problems.

Beginning with the emergency tariff, which proved of immense benefit to farmers, Senator Kellogg has been in the firing line for everyone of these great constructive measures, whose operation will be beneficial not merely to a class but to the whole people. The packer control law had the support of Senator Kellogg from its inception to its passage. The co-operative marketing law is a better measure because of his assistance in framing it and helping to put it through. The law regulating future trading in grain and seeking to eliminate the gambling in futures had his support. The bill increasing to $50,000,000 the capital of the farm loan banks, which immediately brought down the interest charge on farm mortgages, even by private concerns, was supported by him.

I am sure the people of Minnesota must appreciate the fact that in winning places on the great committees of Interstate Commerce, Foreign Relations, Education and Labor and Revision of the Laws, Senator Kellogg has increased his prestige and his influence. To change for another would be to lose the vantage ground won by Senator Kellogg during this six years of service.

SUNDAY SCHOOL CONVENTION

THERE are few conventions in the state of Minnesota that have a wider range of people interested in their purpose and program than the convention of the Minnesota Sunday School Association which meets in annual convention in Brainerd, October 19-22 of this year.

There are few parents in a city like Brainerd whose children are not in some Sunday school. Whether parents are Protestant or Catholic they are intent upon seeing to it that their children are given a religious education. The children of Catholic parents not only receive the instruction which may be arranged for certain hours of the Sabbath, but during the week this education is supplemented by instruction of a religious character. The result of this is that the child from the Catholic home is given a very definite knowledge of the teaching of his church. However, Protestant parents are not usually so enthusiastic about providing a religious education for their children as are their Catholic neighbors. And yet the people of both of these two branches of the church are agreed that religious education is essential if a child is to grow up with a sense of relation to the spiritual order.

The convention of the association helps to stimulate interest in this part of a child's education and is of considerable importance to any city because of this contribution to its thought. In the presence of the appalling increase in the number of criminals, who in their early teens find themselves convicted of crimes, there is an increasing interest in providing those foundations of character, the building of which is the purpose of the Sunday school.

Just to what extent the failure of the Sunday school to fulfill its function is responsible for the break-down of the morale of young people cannot be properly apporportioned. This, however, is known. There are many children in Minnesota, and a considerable number in Crow Wing county, who are not given the foundation of character which the Sunday school attempts to build. Leaders in the Sunday school movement are ready to confess that the methods employed in the Sunday schools of the state are not in all cases the most satisfactory. In many cases the teachers are untrained, and in many churches there is a very evident indifference to the needs of the children. There are many who do not see that the children of today will be the religious leaders of tomorrow. However, as stress is being placed upon the need of education as a means of changing the character of the thinking of the race, and as the hope of a generation that shall be a wonderful advance on anything that the world has known, people are coming to realize that the place of religious education in the life of the child cannot be over-emphasized. H. G. Wells sees in the education of all the people a means of bringing in the golden age, and he allows that one of the first interests, one of the greatest forces for improving the race is its religion.

If the coming of the convention to Brainerd results in an increased interest in providing a thorough religious education for the children of the city it will be worth what it costs. It is taken from city to city through the state for just this purpose, the stimulating of the interest of the citizens in the place where it convenes in giving the children of this age a religious background against which everything in their lives will stand out.

There are always a few who sense the importance of such training and, occasionally, a business man is found who devotes a great deal of his time to Sunday school work. In Brainerd, the most significant example of this service for the youth of the city, is seen in the splendid work of H. F. Michael who set out to thoroughly understand the principles underlying religious education and who, having most efficiently handled a large Sunday school, is now in demand as a speaker who can tell something of the problems of such work and how they may be successfully met. Many more men will be needed in this work if the condition of child delinquency that looks us in the face every day is to be successfully met and the children saved from the pitfalls of life. The final decision is this: Are we more willing to provide a strong police force to protect property and life than we are to supply a religious education that will safeguard life and property by checking the harvest of criminals? This choice is always with the race, and it may have one or the other.

Brainerd will look forward to the enthusiasm in Sunday school work that will inevitably result from the gathering of the Sunday school workers of Minnesota in Brainerd for their annual convention.

NATIONAL DAIRY EXPOSITION

THE dairy show is attracting people from all over the United States to the grounds of the Minnesota State Fair that contain the most valuable display of livestock ever assembled in Minnesota. From all parts of the country pedigreed cattle have been brought to this exposition to compete for prizes to the amount of $35,000. But the profit accruing to those who attend this national exposition is not to be found merely in looking over the fine exhibits that are on view but in the educational features that are a part of the show. Speakers of prominence from various parts of the United States will tell of the problems that meet the farmer in their widely scattered states, and of how these problems have been most successfully met. The governors of states adjacent to Minnesota, whose home states face problems akin to those met in Minnesota, will speak to the assembled crowds. Experts in diversified farming will seek to instruct the farmers of this and other states who attend the show on how they may best conquer the difficulties arising from the over-production of certain specific crops with a resultant over-stocking of the market; and how by diversified farming they may avoid putting all their eggs in one basket, so that if the market is against them on certain products they may satisfactorily market other produce.

Instruction will be given as to the most advantageous manner of handling several lines of production and the local problems will be considered by experts able to offer valuable suggestions.

Crow Wing county is not behind others in its interest in this show. Both merchants and farmers, who will be equally benefited by the development of diversified farming in Crow Wing county which is, more than many other counties, splendidly adapted to dairying, are going down to the show in a monster procession of automobiles on the 12th of October.

P. M. Zakariassen, County Agent E. G. Roth, A. J. Hayes, and others who have sought to promote interest in this show and to secure a large attendance of Crow Wing county people, are helping to build up this county's agricultural interests, over which the Chamber of Commerce has showed itself to be alert.

SPEECH OF SEN.

ARTHUR CAPPER
OF KANSASDELIVERED AT OWATONNA, AF-TERNOON OF OCT. 10; AUS-TIN, EVENING OF OCT. 10

Senator Arthur Capper, of Kansas, in his speech delivered at Owatonna Tuesday afternoon, and at Austin the same evening, gave a record of achievements of the Harding administration and showed the part Senator Kellogg has played in aiding the administration. He said:

There is one thing, I think, on which everybody can agree. There was handed to President Harding on March 4, 1921, the most tangled and disorganized wreck of governmental affairs that has ever been presented by one administration to another. Few people realize what an enormous task confronted the Harding administration. It had an almost impossible job—to bring order out of chaos. We hear many people complaining because progress has been slow. The trouble is they are not giving the administration credit for what it has actually accomplished.

The total of the money expended for war purposes and the property lost in the late war was $338,000,000,000—a sum which we are incapable of comprehending except by comparison. The losses of this war were equivalent to wiping out all of the property in the United States twice over.

Do you wonder that the world and we, as a part of the world, are suffering from exhaustion and depression, and are staggering under taxes such as we have never before experienced?

No political party—Democratic or Republican—could bring back prosperity at once under such conditions. I am here to say that President Harding, keeping in mind that he has an almost impossible task, has given us as good an administration as was humanly possible. The vast work of reconstructing the shattered finances, the disordered commerce, and the disturbed relations of an entire nation have all been handled in a way that must challenge the admiration of fair-minded people.

Vast economies have been effected in every department. Efficiency has been restored. Taxes have been materially reduced. A great international disarmament conference has been held which for the quality of statesmanship exhibited and magnitude of accomplishments will endure as one of the great achievements of history. It will save the United States hundreds of millions of dollars annually in the reduction of armaments and preparation for war.

The administration found a national debt of $24,000,000,000 and an annual interest charge of $1,000,000,000. This indebtedness has been reduced 3 billions in two years.

The cost of running the government is being steadily cut down. In 1920 the expenditures had been reduced to $6,500,000,000 by putting an end to war work through the economy of a Republican congress.

In 1921, good business methods introduced by the new administration further reduced the operating appropriations to $4,750,000,000.

For the fiscal year just closed, this 4 1/2 billions of expense has been brought down to $3,909,000,000 and we are not through yet.

Not only have we reduced the total sum of federal taxation by about $1,000,000,000 a year, but we have reduced it to such a point that the government of the United States collects from its citizens per capita about one-third as much federal taxes as does the government of Great Britain.

Ours is the only great nation that since the war has reduced expenses year by year. It has all the time kept the outgo inside the income, making it possible to reduce the national debt, while other nations have increased their debts.

One reason why all this has been done is because this administration promptly passed a budget law, which had been vetoed by President Wilson. It is the greatest measure known to any government for reducing expenses in the routine of government. It has already aided in achieving the extraordinary reduction of two billion dollars in our public funded debt, 700 million in our floating debt, and nearly a billion dollars a year in taxation.

We also passed a new revenue law which reduced the burden of taxes upon the people by nearly another billion dollars a year.

The number of government employees at Washington has been reduced by nearly 40,000 since January, 1921, and further reductions are being made every month. Let me remark right here that it is the easiest thing on earth to create an office; but the hardest thing on earth to abolish an office. We found Liberty bonds selling for 85 cents on the dollar. We brought them to par.

We found an army of 230,000 men. We have reduced it to 130,000 men.

We found a navy of 133,765. We have reduced it to 95,000.

We have put an end to the mad rush of competitive naval expansion and construction. Many old ships are being scrapped. This year we have a decrease of one hundred and twenty-five millions in naval appropriations, with still greater reductions to follow.

This Congress has done some big outstanding things from which we shall always benefit. No president and no Congress has ever shown such interest in the farmer. It has passed more legislation to encourage and build up agriculture than any other half dozen Congresses before it.

It revived the War Finance Corporation Act and appropriated one billion dollars to be lent to farmers and stockmen and co-operative associations. This measure saved thousands of farmers from disaster.

It passed the co-operative marketing bill, the anti-grain gambling bill, the packer control act, the bill to place a dirt farmer on the federal reserve board, the bill enlarging the activities of the farm loan board and the agricultural emergency tariff law.

Before the Republican party came into power on March 4, 1921, millions of pounds of wool and mutton from Australia, millions of bushels of wheat from Canada and corn from South America had been dumped upon our market and helped to depress prices. The good effects of the emergency tariff law soon became apparent in the advancing price of both wool and cotton. The steadily declining prices for wheat were checked and the American markets soon showed a differential of about 20 cents a bushel over the Canadian market.

The bill making provision for an additional treasury provision of $25,000,000 for the Farm Loan Board made available for that important farm loan agency a total working capital of $50,000,000. It placed the farm loan board and banks for the first time since their organization in position to function continuously and we are now making loans amounting to a million dollars a day to the farmers of the nation.

It is true that some of the emergency measures did not accomplish all that was hoped or expected. The fact is that the national emergency was so great and so wide-spread that it was impossible to meet it satisfactorily with rushed legislation.

You have no doubt heard of a group of senators known as the "Farm Bloc." I am very proud to be chairman of this bloc. The only difference between the agricultural bloc and the Wall Street bloc and other big interest blocs, which have been busy for thirty years, is that the latter blocs always work under cover while the agricultural bloc operates in the open.

The farm bloc, as you may have noticed, has been the target for much abuse, even ridicule. This criticism has come from those who don't understand the country's need of this bloc, but mostly it has come from the privileged interest which have been "blocking" congress for years. The farm bloc senators don't mind the criticism, so long as it doesn't interfere with getting things done. But when it does interfere, they have to fight this opposition to a standstill, before they can go on as before. We therefore have had more or less of a constant scrap with these outside interests.

However, it is a great satisfaction to know we are fighting for what is right. And there is always this difference between the farm bloc and all other blocs which the years have existed in congress. The farm bloc is not out to block anything that is for this country's good; it supports everything that is likely to help the well-being of all the people. But the one thing that it does insist upon is that henceforth nobody shall be allowed to put any more blocks in the way of the big industry that keeps all the other industries going.

We are out to get a square deal for agriculture and we are going to keep fighting until we do get it.

I want you to notice one thing. President Harding has promptly signed every farm bloc measure enacted by congress. He also has endorsed the other measures favored by the bloc which have not yet been passed by congress.

The bloc has still many important things to accomplish. One of them is a credit plan which will be of speedy and immense value to the farming industry. The farmer must have better prices for his products than he is receiving now or he will soon be put out of business. He cannot get better prices unless he has a credit system that will enable him to market his products in an orderly way. The bloc is endeavoring to have enacted into law a system of 1, 2 and 3 year credit for farmers based on their products as collateral. It is not more money we are asking for the farmer, but we want a credit system and an interest rate adapted to his needs and that will give him a chance to stay in business.

The farm bloc believes and I believe that freight rates are too high and must come down. These high freight rates have hit the farmers doubly hard because the farmer gets the freight added to everything he buys and the freight is taken off of everything he sells. It is this fact that makes an immediate and deep cut in rail rates on farm products and other commodities so urgent.

This administration must be given credit for bringing about a reduction of 400 million dollars in freight rates, but we need another and a greater cut.

I want the carriers to have a fair return on their investment, but the people are entitled to still further reductions in transportation charges. I have a bill before the senate to repeal the so-called guarantee clause, Section 15a, of the Esch-Cummins Act, and to restore control of local rates to state commissions. I believe the question of transportation charges will never again be on a satisfactory basis until all the objectionable provisions of the Esch-Cummins Act are repealed.

The great abuse of the tax-free privilege is blocking the industrial growth of the country and the masses of the people pay for it in higher charges, higher rates, higher prices and in excessive taxes. The remedy is a constitutional amendment prohibiting all tax-exempt securities. I am glad to say the farm bloc is doing everything possible to put it through.

I believe that for the next quarter-century the outstanding policy of this nation should be the carrying out of a great constructive program for the upbuilding of its farm and live stock industry. The farm bloc has such a program well started in congress. If all its measures are enacted, they will lay a broad foundation on what may be erected the world's best and most enduring system of agriculture. That would mean the upbuilding of what would be the world's most enduring and most widespread and genuine national prosperity.

You Minnesota people are to be warmly congratulated on the type of Senator you have in Frank B. Kellogg. He is one of the big men of that body. We in the senate have come to have a deep respect for his character as a man, his learning as a lawyer and statesman, and his patriotic devotion to his country.

You are too familiar with his record for me to take time to recite it to you. His splendid fight for preparedness in the days before America's entrance into the great war, his contributions to the numerous war measures, all of which were made sounder by his efforts, and many of which would have been even better had his advice been followed by the Democratic majority then in control of Congress, are an old story in Minnesota. His tremendous fight to obtain a fair price for wheat during war time when the selfish interests of other sections sought to beat down the price is known not alone in Minnesota but throughout the great grain-growing sections of the country. That victory stamped him not only as a staunch but a wise friend of the producing classes of this country, on whose welfare the prosperity of all the rest depends.

Without parading or over-emphasizing his devotion to the great agricultural producing population, Senator Kellogg has been one of the best friends the farmer ever has had in congress. He was championing the just cause of the producers before many who have since become conspicuous in their championship were unknown outside the borders of their own states. Never has that loyalty to his home people ever lessened but always has the doughty Minnesota fighter been in the forefront of the fray.

Senator Kellogg is an active and valued member of the Farm Bloc. He has been an author of some and an advocate of all the great measures calculated to encourage and stimulate agriculture that have been enacted during the administration of President Harding. He is the author of the bill that places a dirt farmer on the Federal Reserve Board. He was the author of the bill, authorizing the war finance corporation to approve loans on grain, livestock and other farm products which had the effect of relieving in great measure the financial depression under which agriculture suffered so severely during 1920 and later. Under the provisions of this bill more than $17,000,000 was advanced to farmers through institutions in Minnesota alone.

Besides these measures of which Senator Kellogg was the author, is a long list of measures to relieve agriculture which have had his support in framing and passing. In all of these agricultural bills grave and legal problems were involved and his abilities as a great lawyer were always at the service of those of us devoid of legal learning in meeting the legal difficulties encountered. It has been a fine thing for the farm bloc and for the champions of this progressive legislation that we have the legal services of Frank Kellogg in meeting our problems.

Beginning with the emergency tariff, which proved of immense benefit to farmers, Senator Kellogg has been on the firing line for everyone of these great constructive measures, whose operation will be beneficial not merely to a class but to the whole people. The packer control law had the support of Senator Kellogg from its inception to its passage. The co-operative marketing law is a better measure because of his assistance in framing it and helping to put it through. The law regulating future trading in grain and seeking to eliminate the gambling in futures had his support. The bill increasing to $50,000,000 the capital of the farm loan banks, which immediately brought down the interest charge on farm mortgages, even by private concerns, was supported by him.

I am sure the people of Minnesota must appreciate the fact that in winning places on the great committees of Interstate Commerce, Foreign Relations, Education and Labor and Revision of the Laws, Senator Kellogg has increased his prestige and his influence. To change for another would be to lose the vantage ground won by Senator Kellogg during this six years of service.

GENERAL SEWER IS A LARGE PROJECT

Work Progressing Rapidly in Spite of Many Setbacks Encountered and Cement Shortage

RICHES & SON, CONTRACTORS

Expect to Complete 3,750 Feet This Fall and Balance, 1,800 Feet Next Year

Work on the general sewer, which runs through the ravine between Bluff avenue east and Northeast Brainerd, is progressing rapidly, considering the difficulties and setbacks which have been experienced.

Riches & Son have the contract, and S. A. Riches very kindly piloted the Dispatch man over the ground and explained the work being done in every particular.

This new sewer is a much larger project than most people who have not seen the work being done, can appreciate. It begins at the Mississippi river's edge north of the cemetery, skirts the cemetery on the west and follows up the ravine, beneath the fill and connects with the downtown mains in the alley between east Laurel and Maple streets. Other sewer mains empty into it at intervals from both sides, during this distance.

To give Dispatch readers an idea of the immensity of this undertaking, Mr. Riches gave out the following data: Beginning at the river's edge, and continuing about half way to the Northeast Brainerd fill, the interior dimensions of the sewer are 54 inches each way, the inside is arched over the top with an oval bottom. The construction is entirely of reinforced concrete, and with the above dimensions, it is felt that the needs of the city are taken care of for many years to come. The south half of the project gradually diminishes in size, until the opening is only 36 inches each way where it joins the Laurel street mains.

The contractors have experienced several serious difficulties in the construction of this sewer. Quicksand has been encountered in a number of instances, hindering the work to such an extent that Mr. Riches is one thousand feet behind in his schedule. At one place the quicksand is of such quantity that it will be necessary to change the route of the sewer in order to avoid working through it.

Another serious difficulty is the shortage of cement. The supply for this territory, which is fed from Duluth, is over one hundred thousand barrels short of taking care of the needs of the district. Cement cannot be had at any consideration. Price seems to be no object, since northwestern contractors have been offering prices away above the market in order to finish their construction projects for this fall, but with out avail. The cause of this cement shortage is given as being due to the recent coal strike.

On account of this cement famine, the construction work on the Brainerd sewer cannot be completed this fall, as was confidently expected. With the amount of cement at their disposal, the contractors can only finish their work to within about four hundred feet of the fill on the north side, which brings the work well into the old Koering baseball field. This means that 3,750 feet will have been completed, with 1,800 feet still to go in the spring to complete the job. Mr. Riches estimates that it will take at least four thousand barrels of cement in building the entire sewer.

At the river end, the floor of the sewer spreads out in a fan-shaped apron, which carries the water out into the river. Beneath this apron, and extending about ten feet out into the river, is a smaller conduit, which will take the sewerage out far enough so that the current will be sure to catch it.

When this contract is completed, Brainerd will have a sewerage system which would do credit to a much larger city, and one that can amply take care of the city's needs for a long time to come. Citizens will be much interested in making a trip to the scene of operations, and viewing for themselves the work that is being done.

PRICE OF GASOLINE DROPS TWO CENTS

INCREASED PRODUCTION CALLED
REASON FOR THE REDUC-TION

Minneapolis, Oct. 11.—Motorists hailed with joy a reduction of two cents a gallon on gasoline, which became effective yesterday at all oil filling stations over the entire Indiana field, including Minneapolis's adjacent territory.

The approach of winter months and increased production of crude oil with lower prices on that commodity, is responsible for the reduced price of gasoline, according to F. L. Cochran, manager of the Standard Oil company here.

"Consumption of gasoline has held up better than usual this summer," Mr. Cochran declared, "and the reduction in price is in no manner influenced by any falling off in the demand."

The saving to users in the territory affected by the cut in price is estimated at $2,500,000 a month.

Situation in Brainerd

A call at the local filling stations in Brainerd, elicits the information that gasoline took a two-cent drop Tuesday, making the price at the Standard, Home, Northwestern Oil Co., etc., 23 4-10 cents per gallon for regular grade or 21 4-10 cents per gallon if purchased by the barrel. High test gasoline is reduced to 26 4-10 at these stations. Energy gas was being retailed at garages at 27c.

Little Fall's Prices

A reduction of two cents a gallon in the price of gasoline became effective at the Standard Oil filling station here Tuesday morning. Red Crown gas now retails for 23.3 cents per gallon. The Little Falls Oil company also announces a cut of a similar amount in the price of Energy gas, which now sells for 26.3 cents.

NEW PAVING NOT TO BE USED THURSDAY

Owing to a misunderstanding between local men in charge of the farmer-business men tour to the Dairy Show, plans for using the new paving out of Little Falls had to be given up. State highway officials state that the paving has not had time to set and cannot be used even for this light traffic. This will necessitate routing the pilot car and balance of the tourists by way of the regular detour, striking the paving at a point further south of Little Falls.

LADIES AIDS TO ASSIST IN HOUSING

It is Expected from 500 to 1,000 Sunday School Delegates Can be So Taken Care Of

MRS. HENRY OLSON IS CHAIRMAN

Mrs. A. J. Fitzsimmons, Commissary Chairman, to Prepare 6 or 8 Regular Meals and Banquet

Committee heads are meeting each morning at ten o'clock in the Chamber of Commerce parlors, perfecting plans for the coming State Sunday School convention, now less than a week distant.

Mrs. Henry Olson, in charge of entertainment and assignment, reports that the matter of housing delegates, will be presented to the different Ladies Aids, which are meeting either today or tomorrow in their respective parishes. It is expected that through the different Aids, the matter of housing from 500 to a thousand guests will be taken care of, taking into consideration the reservations that have already been made.

Mrs. A. J. Fitzsimmons, at the head of a very important division, the commissary, is confronted with the task of preparing six or eight regular meals and two or three banquets, not a small undertaking, by any means.

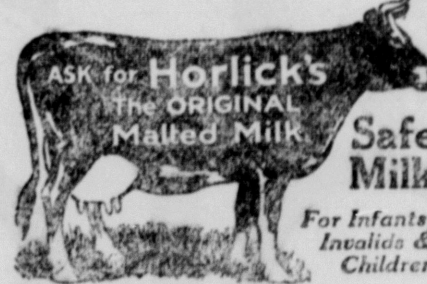

Tentative plans are for each church to serve one meal during the four days of the convention. Or, if any church is not equipped to handle this work alone, it might go in with another congregation that is better situated in this respect. A banquet for certain classes of delegates is scheduled for Thursday evening, and one or two on Saturday night.

It might be well to outline the work which will be carried on in the different church buildings of the city during this convention. The general convention headquarters will be located in the First Methodist church and also the Childrens Division, The Young Peoples division in the Presbyterian church, the adult division in the Bethlehem Lutheran church, the school administration in the First Baptist church and the officers conferences in the First Congregational church.

As the program stands now, the different conferences of the convention will be held in their respective churches at 8 o'clock each morning followed by a general mass meeting for the balance of the morning, with conferences during the afternoon and mass meetings in the evening. This of course does not apply to the Sunday program, for which special arrangements are being made.

GENERAL SEWER IS A LARGE PROJECT

Work Progressing Rapidly in Spite of Many Setbacks Encountered and Cement Shortage

RICHE & SON, CONTRACTORS

Expect to Complete 3,750 Feet This Fall and Balance, 1,800 Feet Next Year

Work on the general sewer, which runs through the ravine between Bluff avenue east and Northeast Brainerd, is progressing rapidly, considering the difficulties and setbacks which have been experienced.

Riches & Son have the contract, and S. A. Riches very kindly piloted the Dispatch man over the ground and explained the work being done in every particular.

This new sewer is a much larger project than most people who have not seen the work being done, can appreciate. It begins at the Mississippi river's edge north of the cemetery, skirts the cemetery on the west and follows up the ravine, beneath the fill and connects with the downtown mains in the alley between east Laurel and Maple streets. Other sewer mains empty into it at intervals from both sides, during this distance.

To give Dispatch readers an idea of the immensity of this undertaking, Mr. Riches gave out the following data: Beginning at the river's edge, and continuing about half way to the Northeast Brainerd fill, the interior dimensions of the sewer are 54 inches each way, the inside is arched over the top with an oval bottom. The construction is entirely of reinforced concrete, and with the above dimensions, it is felt that the needs of the city are taken care of for many years to come. The south half of the project gradually diminishes in size, until the opening is only 36 inches each way where it joins the Laurel street mains.

The contractors have experienced several serious difficulties in the construction of this sewer. Quicksand has been encountered in a number of instances, hindering the work to such an extent that Mr. Riches is one thousand feet behind in his schedule. At one place the quicksand is of such quantity that it will be necessary to change the route of the sewer in order to avoid working through it.

Another serious difficulty is the shortage of cement. The supply for this territory, which is fed from Duluth, is over one hundred thousand barrels short of taking care of the needs of the district. Cement cannot be had at any consideration. Price seems to be no object, since northwestern contractors have been offering prices away above the market in order to finish their construction projects for this fall, but with out avail. The cause of this cement shortage is given as being due to the recent coal strike.

On account of this cement famine, the construction work on the Brainerd sewer cannot be completed this fall, as was confidently expected. With the amount of cement at their disposal, the contractors can only finish their work to within about four hundred feet of the fill on the north side, which brings the work well into the old Koering baseball field. This means that 3,750 feet will have been completed, with 1,800 feet still to go in the spring to complete the job. Mr. Riches estimates that it will take at least four thousand barrels of cement in building the entire sewer.

At the river end, the floor of the sewer spreads out in a fan-shaped apron, which carries the water out into the river. Beneath this apron, and extending about ten feet out into the river, is a smaller conduit, which will take the sewerage out far enough so that the current will be sure to catch it.

When this contract is completed, Brainerd will have a sewerage system which would do credit to a much larger city, and one that can amply take care of the city's needs for a long time to come. Citizens will be much interested in making a trip to the scene of operations, and viewing for themselves the work that is being done.

The Willing Workers society of the young people of the Swedish Baptist church, which recently was reorganized, held a social at the home of Mr. and Mrs. A. Ormseth Tuesday. PRICE OF GASOLINE DROPS TWO CENTS

INCREASED PRODUCTION CALLED
REASON FOR THE REDUC-TION

Minneapolis, Oct. 11—Motorists hailed with joy a reduction of two cents a gallon on gasoline, which became effective yesterday at all oil filling stations over the entire Indian field, including Minneapolis and adjacent territory.

The approach of winter months, and increased production of crude oil with lower prices on that commodity, is responsible for the reduced price of gasoline, according to F. L. Cochran, manager of the Standard Oil company here.

"Consumption of gasoline has held up better than usual this summer," Mr. Cochran declared, "and the reduction in price is in no manner influenced by any falling off in the demand."

The saving to users in the territory affected by the cut in price is estimated at $2,500,000 a month.

Situation in Brainerd

A call at the local filling stations in Brainerd, elicits the information that gasoline took a two-cent drop Tuesday, making the price at the Standard, Home, Northwestern Oil Co., etc., 23 4-10 cents per gallon for regular grade or 21 4-10 cents per gallon if purchased by the barrel. High test gasoline is reduced to 26 4-10 at these stations. Energy gas was being retailed at garages at 27c.

Little Fall's Prices

A reduction of two cents a gallon in the price of gasoline became effective at the Standard Oil filling station here Tuesday morning. Red Crown gas now retails for 23.3 cents per gallon. The Little Falls Oil company also announces a cut of a similar amount in the price of Energy gas, which now sells for 26.3 cents.

Finally, last minute arrangements will have to be gone over in regard to the delegation of farmers' and business men who are traveling by automobile Thursday to the National Dairy Show now in session in the Twin Cities.

The Chamber will be asked to get behind the County Poultry Association and assist in making the coming poultry show the first of December the success that it should be.

FANNING WITH FARRELL

GREATEST BASEBALL TEAM OF ALL TIME

By HENRY L. FARRELL
United Press Sports Editor

New York, Oct. 11.—Henry Fabian is the boss of the barbers and massage experts who keep the playing field at the Polo grounds perfectly groomed. He is a good one too.

He has one abiding devotion, one unswerving fanaticism and one idea of perfection and it is all wrapped up in the New York Giants. His loyalty for John McGraw and his Giants is too big for Polo Grounds.

After his daily afternoon duty of painting fresh white lines around the plate and flicking off every pebble from the velvet-like turf, he retires to a soap box down the left field foul line, there to tell any and all listeners of the glory of the Giants and the misery of all other ball clubs.

During one of the closing games of the season, Fabian was asked to name what he would be willing to call the All-American team of all time in baseball.

"Henry," it was suggested, "you have been around baseball all your life. You have played with some of the greatest stars and you have seen all the others play down to the present time. Name the greatest man you have seen in every position."

"Well, that's a big job. Don't know as I could do it. Been lots of great ball players. I'm not one of those old timers, though, who thinks all the class was in the old days," the lantern-jawed Fabian said.

"Who was the greatest first baseman of all times?" his examiner persisted.

"Well," he drawled, slowly. "He don't look so good and ain't figured so good but that George Kelly out there is a grand ball player. He's as good as any of them. Yes, he's a smart ball player. Take that Sisler, he hasn't any brains. Sweet ball player, yes, but he don't think. Merkle was a great ball player. So was Chase. But Kelly is a grand player."

"How about second base? Ever see any better than Collins or Lajoie?"

"Well, I tell you. He's on the ground a lot and he's kind of sloppy handling the ball, but that Frankie Frisch is a sweet ball player. Don't know but what he's as good as any of them. Great boy and a great player. Hornsby'd be a swell player if he was on the Giants. Yes, guess Frankie's about the best if them."

"What do you say about shortstops?"

That's a tough one. I've seen lots of fine shortstops, but they always had something the matter with them. But when you come down to it, the only thing wrong with Dave Bancroft is his stomach. He ain't strong. If he had my constitution and his youth, he'd be a marvel. Dave is a great ball player. Don't know of any better."

It was suggested that it would be shorter to call the roll of the Giants and elect each as the individual star of all times in his line.

"You wouldn't be far wrong at that. Great ball club the Giants. They'll always be great as long as McGraw is on the bench, because he won't keep 'em if he can't make 'em that way."

Fabian is willing to admit that Babe Ruth is the greatest hitter of the present day, but he continues:

"I'd like to see Deleahanty in there hitting at that rabbit ball."

Ruth, he maintains, can be stopped by any pitcher who is smart enough to pitch to him.

"The trouble was, until the Giant pitchers showed 'em last fall, that all the pitchers tried to fool him and he killed bad balls. Brothers and all the sluggers told me they struck out most of the time on balls right in the middle. If those American League pitchers would go out and pitch to him, he wouldn't hit so many home runs."

"McGraw knew how to stop him and he did."

AMUSEMENTS

Agnes Ayers & Thos. Meighan in "Cappy Ricks"

Agnes Ayers, Paramount's newest star, will have cause to remember her last appearance as a leading woman

Thomas Meighan in the Paramount Picture "Cappy Ricks" in a Paramount picture. She was elevated to stardom by Paramount while working as leading woman with Thomas Meighan in "Cappy Ricks," a compilation of Peter B. Kyne's breezy stories of the sea, which will be shown at the Lyceum tonight and Thursday.

The company directed by Tom Forman spent some time on the Maine coast off which the wreck scenes were made. After returning from the locations Miss Ayers received instructions to report in Hollywood to begin her first picture as a star.

The "Cappy Ricks" company worked day and night for a week, with only a few hours between scenes to complete the episodes in which Miss Ayers appears. The part of Florrie Ricks, heroine of the Kyne story, supplies Miss Ayers with one of her best screen characterizations. The support generally is excellent.

Charles Jones Coming in "Trooper O'Neil"

A Fox production of more than ordinary interest is coming to the Lyceum theatre on Friday and Saturday. It is called "Trooper O'Neil," and the star is Charles Jones. A reviewer in another city says of this film: "It is a breath of the Canadian wood lands. When the picture opens you are greeted by a scene where snow-capped peaks raise their crests, plumed with giant pines. That is the background for a story which is swift in action and engrossing in theme. The beauty of the settings is cleverly blended with the ever-increasing charm of this spirited romance. Situation follows situation in rapidly increasing succession to the final stirring climax. And rarely has a climax been more powerful."

WHY SUFFER SO?

Why suffer from a bad back, from sharp, shooting twinges, headaches, dizziness and distressing urinary ills? Brainerd people recommended Doan's Kidney Pills. Ask your neighbor. Could you ask for stronger proof of merit?

Mrs. C. G. Waffle, 801 7th St., S., Brainerd, says: "Doan's Kidney Pills are indeed a good reliable kidney remedy as both myself and another member of my family have used them for several years and always received good results. Recently my kidneys gave me some trouble caused by being on my feet a good deal. They didn't act regularly and I had sort of dull feeling and my back ached across the small part. I couldn't stand long before I had to sit down and rest. I used Doan's and they strengthened my kidneys and seemed to put new life into me."

ARIZONA PHIL RUSHED TO LOS ANGELES, CALIF.

El Paso, Texas, Oct. 11.—"Arizona Phil" Alquin has been kidnapped in Chihuahua City, Mexico, and is being rushed to Los Angeles to face charges of murder, according to an unconfirmed report here today.

Alquin has been in Chihuahua City since last Saturday, following two unsuccessful attempts of Los Angeles and El Paso officials to kidnap him in Juarez.

DRINK WATER WHEN YOUR KIDNEYS HURT

Stop Eating Meat for a While If Your Bladder is Troubling You

When you wake up with backache and dull misery in the kidney region, it may mean you have been eating too much meat, says a well-known authority. An excess of meat may form uric acid, which overworks the kidneys in their effort to filter it from the blood and they become sort of paralyzed and loggy. When your kidneys get sluggish and clog you must relieve them, like you relieve your bowels, removing all the body's urinous waste, else you have backache, sick headache, dizzy spells; your stomach sours, tongue is coated, and when the weather is bad you have rheumatic twinges. The urine is cloudy, full of sediment, channels often get sore, water scalds and you are obliged to seek relief two or three times during the night.

Either consult a good, reliable physician at once or get from your pharmacist about four ounces of Jad Salts: take a tablespoonful in a glass of water before breakfast for a few days and your kidneys may then act fine. This famous salt is made from the acid of grapes and lemon juice, combined with lithia, and has been used for generation to clean and stimulate sluggish kidneys, also to neutralize acids in the urine so it no longer irritates, thus often ending bladder weakness.

Jad Salts is inexpensive, cannot injure and makes a delightful, effervescent lithia water drink. Drink lots of soft water.

Idea Being Extended.

The principle of the vacuum cleaner is being applied to unload coal, handle grain and other products in large quantities.

"I couldn't work at all and had to take to my bed with a high fever due to intestinal indigestion, gasses in my stomach and pain in my right side. I had spent my last cent for doctors and medicine, which gave me no relief. I was in despair. A lodge brother gave me a bottle of Mayr's Wonderful Remedy, and the first dose relieved me. Thanks to this medicine I am now in the best of health." It is a simple, harmless preparation that removes the catarrhal mucus from the intestinal tract and allays the inflammation, which causes practically all stomach, liver and intestinal ailments, including appendicitis. SQUIRE EDGEGATE—The Constable Comes to Rescue In the Emergency and Interprets a Classic!

BY LOUIS RICHARD

FANNING WITH ARRELL

GREATEST BASEBALL TEAM OF ALL TIME

By HENRY L. FARRELL
United Press Sports Editor

New York, Oct. 11.—Henry Fabian is the boss of the barbers and massage experts who keep the playing field at the Polo grounds perfectly groomed. He is a good one too.

He has one abiding devotion, one unswerving fanaticism and one idea of perfection and it is all wrapped up in the New York Giants. His loyalty for John McGraw and his Giants is too big for Polo Grounds.

After his daily afternoon duty of painting fresh white lines around the plate and flicking off every pebble from the velvet-like turf, he retires to a soap box down the left field foul line, there to tell any and all listeners of the glory of the Giants and the misery of all other ball clubs.

During one of the closing games of the season, Fabian was asked to name what he would be willing to call the All-American team of all time in baseball.

"Henry," it was suggested, "you have been around baseball all your life. You have played with some of the greatest stars and you have seen all the others play down to the present time. Name the greatest man you have seen in every position."

"Well, that's a big job. Don't know as I could do it. Been lots of great ball players. I'm not one of those old timers, though, who thinks all the class was in the old days," the lantern-jawed Fabian said.

"Who was the greatest first baseman of all times?" his examiner persisted.

"Well," he drawled, slowly. "He don't look so good and ain't figured so good but that George Kelly out there is a grand ball player. He's as good as any of them. Yes, he's a smart ball player. Take that Sisler, he hasn't any brains. Sweet ball player, yes, but he don't think. Merkle was a great ball player. So was Chase. But Kelly is a grand player."

"How about second base? Ever see any better than Collins or Lajoie?"

"Well, I tell you. He's on the ground a lot and he's kind of sloppy handling the ball, but that Frankie Frisch is a sweet ball player. Don't know but what he's as good as any of them. Great boy and a great player. Hornsby'd be a swell player if he was on the Giants. Yes, guess Frankie's about the best if them."

"What do you say about shortstops?"

"That's a tough one. I've seen lots of fine shortstops, but they always had something the matter with them. But when you come down to it, the only thing wrong with Dave Bancroft is his stomach. He ain't strong. If he had my constitution and his youth, he'd be a marvel. Dave is a great ball player. Don't know of any better."

It was suggested that it would be shorter to call the roll of the Giants and elect each as the individual star of all times in his life.

"You wouldn't be far wrong at that. Great ball club the Giants. They'll always be great as long as McGraw is on the bench, because he won't keep 'em if he can't make 'em that way."

Fabian is willing to admit that Babe Ruth is the greatest hitter of the present day, but he continues:

"I'd like to see Delephant in there hitting at that rabbit ball."

Ruth, he maintains, can be stopped by any pitcher who is smart enough to pitch to him.

"The trouble was, until the Giant pitchers showed 'em last fall, that all the pitchers tried to fool him and he killed bad balls. Brothers and all the sluggers told me they struck out most of the time on balls right in the middle. If those American League pitchers would go out and pitch to him, he wouldn't hit so many home runs."

"McGraw knew how to stop him and he did."

AMUSEMENTS

Agnes Ayres & Thos. Meighan in "Cappy Ricks"

Agnes Ayres, Paramount's newest star, will have cause to remember her last appearance as a leading woman in a Paramount picture. She was elevated to stardom by Paramount while working as leading woman with Thomas Meighan in "Cappy Ricks," a compilation of Peter B. Kyne's breezy stories of the sea, which will be shown at the Lyceum tonight and Thursday.

Thomas Meighan in the Paramount picture "Cappy Ricks"

The company directed by Tom Forman spent some time on the Maine coast off which the wreck scenes were made. After returning from the locations Miss Ayres received instructions to report in Hollywood to begin her first picture as a star.

The "Cappy Ricks" company worked day and night for a week, with only a few hours between scenes to complete the episodes in which Miss Ayres appears. The part of Florrie Ricks, heroine of the Kyne story, supplies Miss Ayres with one of her best screen characterizations. The support generally is excellent.

Charles Jones Coming in "Trooper O'Neil"

A Fox production of more than ordinary interest is coming to the Lyceum theatre on Friday and Saturday. It is called "Trooper O'Neil," and the star is Charles Jones. A reviewer in another city says of this film: "It is a breath of the Canadian wood lands. When the picture opens you are greeted by a scene where snow-capped peaks raise their crests, plumed with giant pines. That is

WHY SUFFER SO?

Why suffer from a bad back, from sharp, shooting twinges, headaches, dizziness and distressing urinary ills? Brainerd people recommended Doan's Kidney Pills. Ask your neighbor. Could you ask for stronger proof of merit?

Mrs. C. G. Waffle, 801 7th St. S., Brainerd, says: "Doan's Kidney Pills are indeed a good reliable kidney remedy as both myself and another member of my family have used them for several years and always received good results. Recently my kidneys gave me some trouble caused by being on my feet a good deal. They didn't act regularly and I had sort of dull feeling and my back ached across the small part. I couldn't stand long before I had to sit down and rest. I used Doan's and they strengthened my kidneys and seemed to put new life into me."

ARIZONA PHIL RUSHED TO LOS ANGELES, CALIF.

El Paso, Texas, Oct. 11.—"Arizona Phil" Alquin has been kidnapped in Chihuahua City, Mexico, and is being rushed to Los Angeles to face charges of murder, according to an unconfirmed report here today.

Alquin has been in Chihuahua City since last Saturday, following two unsuccessful attempts of Los Angeles and El Paso officials to kidnap him in Juarez.

DRINK WATER WHEN YOUR KIDNEYS HURT

Stop Eating Meat for a While If Your Bladder is Troubling You

When you wake up with backache and dull misery in the kidney region. It may mean you have been eating too much meat, says a well-known authority. An excess of meat may form uric acid, which overworks the kidneys in their effort to filter it from the blood and they become sort of paralyzed and loggy. When your kidneys get sluggish and clog you must relieve them, like you relieve your bowels, removing all the body's urinous waste, else you have backache, sick headache, dizzy spells, your stomach sours, tongue is coated, and when the weather is bad you have rheumatic twinges. The urine is cloudy, full of sediment, channels end get sore, water scalds and you are obliged to seek relief two or three times during the night.

Either consult a good, reliable physician at once or get from your pharmacist about four ounces of Jad Salts; take a tablespoonful in a glass of water before breakfast for a few days and your kidneys may then act fine. This famous salt is made from the acid of grapes and lemon juice, combined with lithia, and has been used for generation to clean and stimulate sluggish kidneys, also to neutralize acids in the urine so it no longer irritates, thus often ending bladder weakness.

Jad Salts is inexpensive, cannot injure and makes a delightful, effervescent lithia water drink. Drink lots of soft water.

Idea Being Extended.
The principle of the vacuum cleaner is being applied to unload coal, handle grain and other products in large quantities.

Plain Duty of Citizenship.
I have ever considered it as the indispensable duty of every member of society to promote, as far as in him lies, the prosperity of every individual, but more especially the community in which he belongs.—John Hancock

CATARRH OF THE STOMACH

YOU CAN'T ENJOY LIFE with a sore, sour, bloated stomach. Food does not nourish. Instead it is a source of misery, causing pains, belching, dizziness and headache.
